THE 'TAFT WING'

A recent article by Thomas A. Stokes raises interesting questions about the future of what he terms the "Taft wing" of the Republican Party.

Mr. Stokes points out that a Republican bloc, of which Taft was spokesman, dominated much Congressional activity for 15 years by means of a coalition with those whom Stokes describes as "Southern Democratic conservatives." The philosophy of this group Mr. Stokes describes as consisting of "isolationist tendencies" and "extreme Midwest nationalism" — "a philosophy that was essentially regional — Midwest, specifically."

Starting from the premise, Mr. Stokes describes Senator Everett McKinley Dirksen of Illinois as attempting to take over control of the "Taft wing," and

Sees More Debt

WASHINGTON — Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D. Va.) Congressional economy leader, expressed doubt today that lawmakers will raise the 275 billion dollar ceiling on public debt next January. He also declared that taxes have about reached the point of diminishing returns, that he sees no prospect whatever of reducing the national debt now at 272 billions, and that balancing the budget is going to be exceedingly difficult.

Flynn 'Dead'

NEW YORK — The office of John J. Sullivan, treasurer of the Bronx Democratic County Committee, said today it had been informed of the death in Ireland of former Democratic national chairman Edward J. Flynn. A spokesman for Sullivan said there was no immediate further information.

Yanks Turned Spy

PANMUNJOM — The use of American turncoats as military spies in efforts to drag U. S. Air Force secrets out of fellow prisoners was reported by one of the 75 GIs freed today in Panmunjom. Another newly-repatriated soldier declared that only 200 to 300 of nearly 4,000 Americans missing in action in 1950 before the Chinese entered the Korean war are still alive and in Communist captivity.

GOP Leader Shot

HOLYOKE, MASS. — A masked gunman shot and killed a prominent western Massachusetts Republican leader today in what police said appeared to be a burglary attempt. Shot down in view of his wife as he grappled with the intruder in his Holyoke home was Henry H. Noel. The slayer dived through a screen door and fled after the shooting.

Jewish Center Sets Building Campaign Goal

$50,000 Seen As Mark For Initial Effort

LEVITTOWN, Aug. 18 — A goal of $50,000 was set last week for the Levittown Jewish Center's first building fund drive, at a recent meeting of the Conservative congregation in William Penn Center, Fallsington.

The initial fund raising effort was announced by Alan Corson, vice-president of the congregation, who urged cooperation in supporting the construction of a Synagogue Center which would meet all the religious needs of Levittown Jewry.

Building plans revealed to the congregation by Arnold Eisen, chairman of the building committee, showed a modern structure with 10 classrooms and an auditorium large enough to accommodate as many as 1100 persons at one time. Ground breaking is scheduled for early Spring on a site at the intersection of Levittown parkway and Newportville road. The first unit of construction will be the school building with classrooms facing Newportville road.

Accept Site

The constitution was presented by Maurice Greenwald and, immediately following acceptance by the congregation, the newly empowered officers and board of directors passed a resolution officially accepting the synagogue site donated by Levitt and Sons.

Seven permanent standing committees are organized by the constitution: finance and audit, religious activities, education, membership, fund raising, public relations, building and facilities.

Harry Kaplan, president of the congregation, introduced the various committee heads who reported on respective activities. In the education committee, submitted by Mrs. Charna Korson, it was announced that Sunday School and adult classes will meet in Delhaas High School beginning September 27. The large Sunday School at

Woman, 83, Rests After Her Late Call Kept Squad Awake

PARKLAND, Aug. 18 — An elderly woman rested in the care of a family physician today after a mysterious phone call had kept members of Trevose Heights Rescue Squad busy for an hour late Friday.

The caller reported to the Abington Hospital that she was ill then dropped the telephone. Rescue Squad Chief C. J. Russell located the caller, an 83-year-old woman reportedly under nervous strain as a result of her relatives being hospitalized in an accident. He left her under the local physician's care.

The Squad was called at 11:22 Friday night, from Langhorne State Police barracks, where a trooper said Abington Hospital had received her mysterious call. The only apparent clue was that the telephone operator traced the call to Parkland.

Examine Wires

Chief Russell took his Squad crew to Parkland, where they stopped at houses with telephone wires, and looked for an elderly woman living alone. Guided by a neighbor to a house where Russell got no response to the door bell, he circled the place before the elderly woman appeared in her night gown. She said she had not called the hospital, but information from neighbors convinced Russell that she had.

Woman Injured

An accident on Lincoln Highway and Old Lincoln Highway Friday in which a Philadelphia woman was injured riding home from her father's burial, resulted from the car ahead stopping to let another funeral procession turn left on the way to Roosevelt Cemetery, a Rescue Squad report revealed.

Mrs. Marion Hartigan, victim of head and face injuries, was riding with her husband, Joseph, when they struck the rear of her brother's car and her head hit the windshield. The Squad took her to Nazareth Hospital, Philadelphia. A two-year-old Nancy Walsh, of Summit avenue, Langhorne, who was taken to Nazareth Hospital, Philadelphia, was reported recovering. She is the daughter of Mrs. Martha Walsh. Yesterday her condition was reported "good."

New Station Wagon Hit After 9 Miles

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Aug. 18 — A brand new station wagon sustained $150 worth of damage here last night in an accident nine miles from the dealer's showroom.

The unlucky driver was Martin Cohen, 35, of 1377 Drayton lane, Wynnewood. Heading east on Route 13 in the new car, he passed a drug store at Cornwells avenue. According to Bensalem township police, another car backed into Cohen's path, and was struck broadside by the station wagon.

Officer Joseph Gallagher, still investigating the accident, identified the backing driver as Emil Kotschniff, 42, of Brown avenue, Eddington. Kotschniff's car sustained $100 in damage, Gallagher said. No injuries were reported.

Hulmeville Board Votes Down Plan To Shift Classes

HULMEVILLE, Aug. 18 — Hulmeville school board last evening voted unanimously to recommend to the school administration that the present status be maintained in the Hulmeville school buildings.

This vote followed discussion with school administrators who had proposed that grades five and six be moved from Hulmeville school to the present high school building at Langhorne.

The board's monthly meeting took place in the local school, and the greater part of the evening was given over to discussion between directors and administrators, the latter group consisting of Dr. Oliver Heckman, superintendent of Neshaminy school district; Miss Thompson Baxter, elementary supervisor; and Miss Giles, assistant elementary supervisor.

The reasons advanced by administrators for recommending transfer of the two grades is that presently there are five teachers for six grades in the local school, which situation is claimed undesirable; and that one of the classrooms is considered sub-standard.

After discussing disadvantages listed by the elementary supervisors and superintendent, Hulmeville directors voted to maintain the present status, at the same time recognizing the short-comings of the present set-up.

The board's decision was to maintain the existing status at least for another year. In the meantime directors state they will study methods of improving the situation, adding they realize that eventually a new building will be needed. "The board feels it is not justified in spending any substantial amount on the present building," a spokesman stated. "We will fully study the problem, and hope to reach a solution satisfactory to all concerned."

Members of the board also discussed some details of the new joint board contract, which is presently being negotiated.

President E. M. Linforth conducted the session, all directors were present.

Mercantile Levy Called 'Ambiguous' By Businessmen

LEVITTOWN, Aug. 18 — The Levittown Businessmen's Association feels that portions of the proposed mercantile tax "are ambiguous and that an analysis of the purpose as well as the potential income to the borough need clarification and discussion."

The stand was taken at a meeting of the association held last night at 7:30 in the Thom McAn shoe store in the Levittown shopping center.

The tax, affecting retail and wholesale business in Tullytown Borough, will go into effect October 1, if it is adopted, as has been proposed, at the next regular meeting of the council September 14.

It would require merchants to buy $2 mercantile licenses and pay a 1½ mills per dollar tax of gross retail business and one mill for wholesale transactions.

Isadore L. Schwartz, owner of a shoe repair and leather goods shop in the shopping center and a member of the association's steering committee, termed the tax "one of the worst things that could happen for the development of the area. If anything, it may scare off new stores contemplating leasing leases here."

Exempted from the tax, according to council's proposal, would be non-profit corporations, religious, educational and charitable organizations.

Glad To Help

"I CAN'T TAKE IT with me," says 80-year-old Louis Paul, as he gives a one hundred dollar bill to Yolanda Di Nunzio, plant solicitor for the Lower Bucks County hospital fund drive. "In all my life I have not seen a more worthwhile project and I'd give everything I've got to make it a reality." Paul's contribution was one of the highlights of the employee solicitation now being conducted in about 30 plants in this area. Gifts to date in the employee division exceed $205,000.00.

State Sales Tax Hits Most Retail Trading

HARRISBURG, Aug. 18 — (INS)

— An 18,000-word interpretation of the new state sales tax law and how it will effect the buying public was sent to the printers today for publication in pamphlet form.

The pamphlets will give complete regulations for assessing the one per cent levy and a breakdown on taxable and exempt items.

The tax goes into effect Sept. 1. Generally, all "tangible personal property" sold at retail except many exemptions — will be subject to the levy.

The tax will be computed on this scale:

Ten cents or less — no tax.
Eleven cents through one dollar — one cent.

More than one dollar — one cent on each dollar or fraction.

Specifically exempted from the tax are food, clothing, medicine, newspapers, religious articles, water, house rentals, sales to government agencies and personal services such as hair cuts, dry cleaning and fees of doctors and lawyers.

Exemptions

Exempted because they are subject to other state taxes are gasoline, cigarettes, alcoholic beverages, bus and train tickets, and telephone, telegraph and electric bills.

Typical articles subject to the tax are automobiles, candy, cigars, furniture, luggage, jewelry and other so-called "luxury" items.

The State Revenue Department, which will collect the tax, said the pamphlets of regulations will be available in 10 days.

They will not be distributed by the department on an individual basis to the 250,000 retail merchants but will be placed at convenient locations in each county.

The Commonwealth expects to collect between 125 and 135 million dollars from the tax in the next 21 months to help meet the half-

Mrs. Frank Faustino Dies Suddenly Here

Mrs. Vittina Faustino died suddenly last night at her home, 334 Washington street.

Her survivors are her husband, Frank; a son, Jasper; and three grandchildren.

Mrs. Faustino, who had apparently been suffering from a heart ailment, had appeared to be quite well during the early evening. She had been sitting on the porch of her home, and ate some ice cream.

Later, not feeling well, she went to bed. Her husband called a physician, but before arrival of the latter, Mrs. Faustino died.

Dr. William Goldfarb, deputy coroner of Bucks County, issued a certificate.

Police Chase Trolley To Recoup Purse

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18 — Mrs. Alfred Iobbi, 50, of Chestnut street and Buttonwood avenue, Trevose, yesterday left her purse with $156 in a trolley car at 8th and Jefferson streets while changing cars, but with the aid of two police officers and an observant motorman the pocketbook was returned intact.

On a business trip to town with her children, Julia, 14, and Alfred, 8, she had boarded a trolley at 2nd street and Glenwood avenue, after being taken to the intersection by her husband.

On discovering the loss of her purse, Mrs. Iobbi rushed to police headquarters. Two officers pursued and overtook the street car. The motorman did not identify himself but handed over the purse, which he said Mrs. Iobbi left on a seat in the car.

FIREMEN CALLED

Bristol firemen were called to the home of Joseph Moffo, 301 Jefferson avenue, yesterday when coal gas was reported seeping through the building and into a nearby store.

State Controls Fail To Affect School Plans

Officials See No Changes In Schedule

State control and supervision of part-time school sessions, an almost 100 per cent feature in the operation of schools locally, will hardly affect the schedules in effect in the area, two school officials declared yesterday.

The measure was written into law and signed by Governor Fine last week. It requires state approval of all plans for half sessions.

Aside from the necessity of submitting the part-time schedules on forms provided by the State to Bucks County Superintendent Charles H. Boehm, no virtual change was foreseen compared to schedules in effect last year.

In Effect Here

Medil Bair, regional superintendent of Pennsylvania schools, said the part-time schedules have been in effect for years in this area. He said the actual last year's schedule would be in effect again this year, pending approval by Superintendent Boehm.

Bair said his region had complied already with the requirement for filing the state forms.

The construction of new schools, said Bair, is keeping an even pace with the influx of new pupils, so that, so far, the situation is tending to cancel themselves out.

He foresaw a possible easing of the necessity for running half sessions when the Penn Valley and Fairless schools are finished.

Walter D. Miller, of the Bristol Township School Board, said teachers on the secondary level would work no longer under the part-time schedules filed for approval than they would in any normal school day.

Two Teachers

He said two teachers—one for the morning shift and one in the afternoon—would be employed in Bristol Township elementary schools. Present plans dictate use of teachers for other duties during the hours not devoted to teaching, he added.

While neither educator knew of any specific regulations in the new Department of Instruction law prohibiting part-time employment for teachers in other occupations in their "off hours," they agreed it would be impractical to embark on such a schedule.

In the words of Miller, "Schools in this area at present are on a virtual 100 per cent part-time basis." He foresaw no changes.

Radio Station Picks Program Director

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 18 — The appointment of Albert W. Eastburn, of 127 Stonybrook drive, Levittown, as program director of radio station WBUD was announced yesterday by Richard M. Hardin, general manager.

Eastburn has been associated with the station: three years on a part-time basis. In his full time capacity, he will be in charge of creating and executing new programs, and will direct special events, features and public service broadcasts.

An industrial engineer, Eastburn was graduated from Lehigh University in 1949. He was a founder of the campus station WLRN and has broadcast over stations WGPA, in Bethlehem and WAEB, Allentown.

Eastburn is a former parliamentarian of the Levittown Civic Association, and is a Republican candidate for Bristol township school director.

GI WOUNDED

Pfc. Herman J. Schneider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schneider, 123 Elm avenue, Cheltenham, was wounded in action in Korea, the Defense Department announced.

Newportville Tragedy Recalled By Deaths

The toll of 11 children suffocated in ice-box deaths last week at points shifting from Arkansas to Massachusetts, recalls the stunned disbelief with which residents in the Bristol area received the news of two similar deaths Nov. 24 last year.

Deputy Coroner, Dr. William A. Goldfarb, has since referred to the tragedy as the "very saddest occasion which I investigated in my official capacity."

The Rev. Harold T. Meitzer, hospital chaplain, broke the news to the Virginia mothers.

Assessor Defends Tullytown Taxes, Raps Duke Sloan

Council President Promises Action On Creek Overflow

TULLYTOWN, Aug. 18 — Borough Council President Nicholas Eberle promised residents here last night "quick action" on the Martin's Creek overflow situation.

Eberle said "if something isn't done mighty soon, I'm going to go to Harrisburg with this thing."

Residents of Upper Tullytown have complained vigorously in recent weeks of the overflow from the stream which, they claim, is caused by Levittown drainage. An official of the State Department of Forests and Waters has said that the Levitt firm did not apply for a permit when they altered the course of the creek to permit drainage from the housing area.

He said, however, that Levitt would "have no trouble in obtaining such a permit, since he has fully complied with" the law in the case, which requires deepening of the creek and several other necessary moves.

A spokesman for the borough health board said last night that a meeting of that group would, in all probability, be held "the first week in September" to iron out the situation.

The principal complainants, Mr. and Mrs. John Steen, of Main street, have "turned the matter over to the Borough" after numerous complaints.

Levitt Firm Replies To Peace Proposal In Zoning Battle

LANGHORNE, Aug. 18 — Levitt and Sons has replied to a recent Middletown township zoning proposal designed to make peace in the current dispute over the expansion of Levittown. Moderator John R. Watkins, one of the authors, said yesterday.

Watkins would not disclose the text of his proposal, nor of Levitt's reply, but said he will present Levitt's answer to the supervisors early this week, possibly Wednesday. Levitt's reply and the supervisor's reaction later will be disclosed at a public meeting, Watkins said.

The moderator said Levitt's recent announcement that he is circulating a petition to annex the Levittown - designated section of Middletown to Bristol township "as a precautionary measure" is making no effect on negotiations.

Levitt is owner of 1,500 Middletown township acres south of Lincoln Highway. Last week the builder said he desires to construct three types of houses, Levittowners, Country Clubbers and Ranchers, on the land.

Protesting Bankers Schedule Meeting

Bucks County's protesting bankers will meet Monday, Aug. 24, for a general discussion of the problem of the influx of big city banks into the smaller banks' trading areas.

The dinner meeting is scheduled for 6:30 p. m. at Doylestown Inn. The meeting is the first assembly of the county bankers since a meeting of a six county executive committee of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association two weeks ago in Philadelphia.

At that meeting bankers deferred action because of incomplete representation of two counties: Berks and Schuylkill. Both groups are expected to announce committee appointments in the near future.

Robert B. Hance, Jr., president of the Bucks County Bankers association, will preside at the meeting.

Bristol Blood Donors Get Commendation

Bristol Blood Donors Emergency Squad has received a certificate from the Sacred Heart Free Home for Incurable Cancer, Philadelphia, commending them for their part in a mass movement of cancer patients.

The Squad's ambulance was one of 22 helped move 45 patients from the Home's old building to a temporary home and later to the Home's new building last fall.

Other Officials Fail To Comment On Controversy

Officials this morning refused comment on the storm of protests kicked up over the first published new tax assessment figures for Falls Township and the Fairless Works of the U. S. Steel Co.

Only Mrs. Frances Strouse, Tullytown Tax assessor, was in a commenting mood. She said of Duke Sloan's charges made two nights ago to the effect that the Levittown shopping center contains 20 acres more than the 60 which were assessed, "He better find out what he's talking about before he goes on to do so much talking."

Sigmund J. Glocker, Falls Township tax assessor, said this morning he had absolutely "no comment." "See Mr. Britton," he added. Elwood Britton, Bucks County Tax assessor, said he had no comment to make at the moment. "Nothing at the present time," he said, "but we may have a release later on in the week."

Raps Statement

Glocker, however, said only several days ago, "There is not a bit of truth in that contention," referring to charges by James P. Doheny, secretary of the Falls Township School Board, that properties in the township were assessed unfairly, with industrial taxes too low in comparison with those on homes.

Doheny called the present valuation of $62,137,200 on the Fairless Works "ridiculous." He contended the figure should not have been lower than $76,000,000.

Glocker said, "The assessment of the steel works for the 1953-54 period is fair and was reached after careful consideration and so far as private homes are concerned, no one in Falls Township has complained."

"The industrial properties are assessed on a 30 per cent basis of the actual value, and the homes in many instances are assessed from 19 to 25 per cent of the value and nothing could be fairer."

"In assessing industrial property

Kirk Shows How To Catch Honeybees; Scientists Meet

NEWTOWN, Aug. 18 — J. Stanley Kirk, research chemist, spoke on bee hunting as a hobby at a meeting of Bucks County Natural Science Association, in Newtown Friends meeting house Saturday.

He showed an ingenious box he had made, in which to catch a honeybee. This he baits with one part honey to three parts water, which mixture approximates the sugar content of nectar. "Most of the bees raised here are three-banded Italians; wild bees are black. One or 1½ miles is usually the limit bees fly for honey, though a bee has been known to fly five miles," he informed. "A normal hive holds 30,000 bees. A queen lays from 1500 to 3000 eggs a day."

Mr. Kirk showed still pictures and a "movie" of bees on flowers, in hives and in swarms. He also showed how a hive is opened when bees and honey are inside. A mild smoking of the bees stupefies them enough to be handled. He informed that "swarming bees do not sting."

John E. Nixon, Langhorne, an engineer who spent over a year in El Salvador, C. A., showed color pictures taken in that densely populated, Pacific coast country. Natives are Indians mixed with Spanish.

Mr. Nixon informed that: "Humming-birds, scissor-tailed flycatchers and painted buntings are found there. Camellias are in abundance. There is a so-called 4-eyed fish which has only two eyes but has two sets of lenses, enabling it to see above the water or under it. Dogs actually catch fish in the water. Lizards, armadillos, scorpions and an interesting little ant-catcher which sprays sand on ants to catch them inhabit the country. Vultures are common and very much needed for scavenger work. The natives make hemp rope, raise rice, coffee and cotton. Bananas, poinsettias, and the fire-tree grow there. Crude houses which the natives live in are roofed with zacti, a kind of grass. Oxen are geared to old carts, the carts

The stand was taken at a meeting of the association held last night at 7:30 in the Thom McAn shoe store in the Levittown shopping center.

The tax, affecting retail and wholesale business in Tullytown Borough, will go into effect October 1, if it is adopted, as has been proposed, at the next regular meeting of the council September 14.

It would require merchants to buy 12 mercantile licenses and pay a $2 mills per dollar tax of gross retail business and one mill for wholesale transactions.

Isadore L. Schwartz, owner of a shoe repair and leather goods shop in the shopping center and a member of the association's steering committee, termed the tax "one of the worst things that could happen for the development of the area. If anything, it may scare off new stores contemplating getting leases here."

Exempted from the tax, according to council's proposal, would be non-profit corporations, religious, educational and charitable organizations.

Glad To Help

"I CAN'T TAKE it with me," says 80-year-old Louis Paul, as he gives a one hundred dollar bill to Yehuda Blum, plant solicitor for the Lower Bucks County hospital fund drive. "In all my life I have not seen a more worthwhile project and I'd give everything I've got to make it a reality." Paul's contribution was one of the highlights of the employee solicitation now being conducted in about 30 plants in this area. Gifts to date in the employee division exceed $205,000.00.

State Sales Tax Hits Most Retail Trading

HARRISBURG, Aug. 18 — (INS) — An 18,000-word interpretation of the new state sales tax law and how it will effect the buying public was sent to the printers today for publication in pamphlet form.

The pamphlets will give complete regulations for assessing the one per cent levy and a breakdown on taxable and exempt items.

The tax goes into effect Sept. 1. Generally, all "tangible personal property" sold at retail except many exemptions — will be subject to the levy.

The tax will be computed on this scale:

Ten cents or less — no tax.

Eleven cents through one dollar — one cent.

More than one dollar — one cent on each dollar or fraction.

Specifically exempted from the tax are food, clothing, medicine, newspapers, religious articles, water, house rentals, sales to government agencies and personal services such as hair cuts, dry cleaning and fees of doctors and lawyers.

Exemptions

Exempted because they are subject to other state taxes are gasoline, cigarettes, alcoholic beverages, bus and train tickets, and telephone, telegraph and electric bills.

Typical articles subject to the tax are automobiles, candy, cigars, furniture, luggage, jewelry and other so-called "luxury" items.

The State Revenue Department, which will collect the tax, said the pamphlets of regulations will be available in 10 days.

They will not be distributed by the department on an individual basis to the 250,000 retail merchants but will be placed at convenient locations in each county.

The Commonwealth expects to collect between 125 and 135 million dollars from the tax in the next 21 months to help meet the half-

Mrs. Frank Faustino Dies Suddenly Here

Mrs. Vittina Faustino died suddenly last night at her home, 334 Washington street.

Her survivors are her husband, Frank; a son, Jasper; and three grandchildren.

Mrs. Faustino, who had apparently been suffering from a heart ailment, had appeared to be quite well during the early evening. She had been sitting on the porch of her home, and ate some ice cream.

Later, not feeling well, she went to bed. Her husband called a physician, but before arrival of the latter, Mrs. Faustino died.

Dr. William Goldfarb, deputy coroner of Bucks County, issued a certificate.

Police Chase Trolley To Recoup Purse

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18 — Mrs. Alfred Iobbi, Sr., of Chestnut street and Buttonwood avenue, Trevose, yesterday left her purse with $156 in a trolley car at 8th and Jefferson streets while changing cars, but with the aid of two police officers and an observant motorman, the pocketbook was returned intact.

On a business trip to town with her children, Julia, 14, and Alfred, 8, she had boarded a trolley at 2nd street and Glenwood avenue, after being taken to the intersection by her husband.

On discovering the loss of her purse, Mrs. Iobbi rushed to police headquarters. Two officers pursued and overtook the street car. The motorman did not identify himself but handed over the purse, which he said Mrs. Iobbi left on a seat in the car.

FIREMEN CALLED

Bristol firemen were called to the home of Joseph Mofko, 301 Jefferson avenue, yesterday when coal gas was reported seeping through the building and into a nearby store.

State Controls Fail To Affect School Plans

Officials See No Changes In Schedule

State control and supervision of part-time school sessions, an almost 100 per cent feature in the operation of schools locally, will hardly affect the schedules in effect in the area, two school officials declared yesterday.

The measure was written into law and signed by Governor Fine last week. It requires state approval of all plans for half sessions.

Aside from the necessity of submitting the part-time schedules on forms provided by the State to Bucks County Superintendent Charles H. Boehm, no virtual change was foreseen compared to schedules in effect last year.

In Effect Here

Medil Bair, regional superintendent of Pennsylvania schools, said the part-time schedules have been in effect for years in this area. He said the actual last year's schedule would be in effect again this year, pending approval by Superintendent Boehm.

Bair said his region had complied already with the requirement for filing the state forms.

The construction of new schools, said Bair, is keeping an even pace with the influx of new pupils, so that, so far, the situations are tending to cancel themselves out.

He foresaw a possible easing of the necessity for running half sessions when the Penn Valley and Fairless schools are finished.

Walter D. Miller, of the Bristol Township School Board, said teachers on the secondary level would work no longer under the part-time schedules filed for approval than they would in any normal school day.

Two Teachers

He said two teachers—one for the morning shift and one in the afternoon—would be employed in Bristol Township elementary schools. Present plans dictate use of teachers for other duties during the hours not devoted to teaching, he added.

While neither educator knew of any specific regulations in the new Department of Instruction law prohibiting part-time employment for teachers in other occupations in their "off hours," they agreed it would be impractical to embark on such a schedule.

In the words of Miller, "Schools in this area at present are on a virtual 100 per cent part-time basis." He foresaw no changes.

Radio Station Picks Program Director

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 18 — The appointment of Albert W. Eastburn, of 127 Stonybrook drive, Levittown, as program director of radio station WBUD was announced yesterday by Richard M. Hardin, general manager.

Eastburn has been associated with the station: three years on a part-time basis. In his full time capacity, he will be in charge of creating and executing new programs, and will direct special events, features and public service broadcasts.

An industrial engineer, Eastburn was graduated from Lehigh University in 1949. He was a founder of the campus station WLRN and has broadcast over stations WGPA, in Bethlehem and WAEB, Allentown.

Eastburn is a former parliamentarian of the Levittown Civic Association, and is a Republican candidate for Bristol township school director.

Newportville Tragedy Recalled By Deaths

The toll of 11 children suffocated in ice-box deaths last week at points shifting from Arkansas to Massachusetts, recalls the stunned disbelief with which residents in the Bristol area received the news of two similar deaths Nov. 24 last year.

Deputy Coroner, Dr. William A. Goldfarb, has since referred to the tragedy as the "very saddest occasion which I investigated in my official capacity."

Following a search over a 200-square-mile area in which 1000 Virginia State police, volunteer firemen and rescue squads took part together with a dozen planes and helicopters, the cramped bodies of four boys were found suffocated in an ice-box near Richmond, Va.

Assessor Defends Tullytown Taxes, Raps Duke Sloan

Council President Promises Action On Creek Overflow

TULLYTOWN, Aug. 18 — Borough Council President Nicholas Eberle promised residents here last night "quick action" on the Martin's Creek overflow situation.

Eberle said "if something isn't done mighty soon, I'm going to go to Harrisburg with this thing." Residents of Upper Tullytown have complained vigorously in recent weeks of the overflow from the stream which, they claim, is caused by Levittown drainage. An official of the State Department of Forests and Waters has said that the Levitt firm did not apply for a permit when they altered the course of the creek to permit drainage from the housing area.

He said, however, that Levitt would "have no trouble in obtaining such a permit, since he has fully complied with" the law in the case, which requires deepening of the creek and several other necessary moves.

A spokesman for the borough health board said last night that a meeting of that group would, in all probability, be held "the first week in September" to iron out the situation.

The principal complainants, Mr. and Mrs. John Steen, of Main street, have "turned the matter over to the Borough" after numerous complaints.

Levitt Firm Replies To Peace Proposal In Zoning Battle

LANGHORNE, Aug. 18 — Levitt and Sons has replied to a recent Middletown township zoning proposal designed to make peace in the current dispute over the expansion of Levittown, Moderator John R. Watkins, one of the authors, said yesterday.

Watkins would not disclose the text of his proposal, nor of Levitt's reply, but said he will present Levitt's answer to the supervisors early this week, possibly Wednesday. Levitt's reply and the supervisor's reaction later will be disclosed at a public meeting, Watkins said.

The moderator said Levitt's recent announcement that he is circulating a petition to annex the Levittown - designated section of Middletown to Bristol township "as a precautionary measure" is making no effect on negotiations.

Levitt is owner of 1,500 Middletown township acres south of Lincoln Highway. Last week the builder said he desires to construct three types of houses, Levittowners, Country Clubbers and Ranchers, on the land.

Protesting Bankers Schedule Meeting

Bucks County's protesting bankers will meet Monday, Aug. 24, for a general discussion of the problem of the influx of big city banks into the smaller banks' trading areas.

The dinner meeting is scheduled for 6:30 p. m. at Doylestown Inn. The meeting is the first assemblage of the county bankers since a meeting of a six county executive committee of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association two weeks ago in Philadelphia.

At that meeting bankers deferred action because of incomplete representation of two counties: Berks and Schuylkill. Both groups are expected to announce committee appointments in the near future.

Robert B. Hance, Jr., president of the Bucks County Bankers association, will preside at the meeting.

Bristol Blood Donors Get Commendation

Bristol Blood Donors Emergency Squad has received a certificate from the Sacred Heart Free Home for Incurable Cancer, Philadelphia, commending them for their part in a mass movement of cancer patients.

The Squad's ambulance was one of 22 helped move 45 patients from the Home's old building to a temporary home and later to the Home's new building last fall.

Other Officials Fail to Comment On Controversy

Officials this morning refused comment on the storm of protests kicked up over the first published new tax assessment figures for Falls Township and the Fairless Works of the U. S. Steel Co.

Only Mrs. Frances Strouse, Tullytown Tax assessor, was in a commenting mood. She said of Duke Sloan's charges made two nights ago to the effect that the Levittown shopping center contains 20 acres more than the 60 which were assessed, "He better find out what he's talking about before he goes on to do so much talking."

Sigmund J. Glocker, Falls Township tax assessor, said this morning he had absolutely "no comment." "See Mr. Britton," he added. Elwood Britton, Bucks County Tax assessor, said he had no comment to make at the moment. "Nothing at the present time," he said, "but we may have a release later on in the week."

Raps Statement

Glocker, however, said only several days ago, "There is not a bit of truth in that contention," referring to charges by James P. Doheny, secretary of the Falls Township School Board, that properties in the township were assessed unfairly, with industrial taxes too low in comparison with those on homes.

Doheny called the present valuation of $62,137,200 on the Fairless Works "ridiculous." He contended the figure should not have been lower than $76,000,000.

Glocker said, "The assessment of the steel works for the 1953-54 period is fair and was reached after careful consideration and so far as private homes are concerned, no one in Falls Township has complained."

"The industrial properties are assessed on a 30 per cent basis of the actual value, and the homes in many instances are assessed from 19 to 25 per cent of the value and nothing could be fairer."

Kirk Shows How To Catch Honeybees; Scientists Meet

NEWTOWN, Aug. 18 — J. Stanley Kirk, research chemist, spoke on bee hunting as a hobby at a meeting of Bucks County Natural Science Association, in Newtown Friends meeting house Saturday. He showed an ingenious box he had made, in which to catch a honeybee. This he baits with one part honey to three parts water, which mixture approximates the sugar content of nectar. "Most of the bees raised here are three-banded Italians; wild bees are black. One or 1 1/2 miles is usually the limit bees fly for honey, though a bee has been known to fly five miles," he informed. "A normal hive holds 30,000 bees. A queen lays from 1500 to 3000 eggs a day."

Mr. Kirk showed still pictures and a "movie" of bees on flowers, in hives and in swarms. He also showed how a hive is opened when bees and honey are inside. A mild smoking of the bees stupefies them enough to be handled. He informed that "swarming bees do not sting."

John E. Nixon, Langhorne, an engineer who spent over a year in El Salvador, C. A., showed color pictures taken in that densely populated, Pacific coast country. Natives are Indians mixed with Spanish.

Mr. Nixon informed that: "Humming-birds, scissor-tailed flycatchers and painted buntings are found there. Camellias are in abundance. There is a so-called 4-eyed fish which has only two eyes but has two sets of lenses, enabling it to see above the water or under it. Dogs actually catch fish in the water. Lizards, armadillos, scorpions and an interesting little ant-catcher which sprays sand on ants to catch them inhabit the country. Vultures are common and very much needed for scavenger work. The natives make hemp rope, raise rice, coffee and cotton. Bananas, poinsettias, and the fire-tree grow there. Crude houses which the natives live in are roofed with sacti, a kind of grass. Ovens are geared to old carts, the carts

140 Youngsters Sorry To See Day Camp End

HULMEVILLE, Aug. 18 — The first annual Lower Bucks County YMCA day camp, held at Shady Rest Lakes, near this borough, came to a conclusion Friday. A total of 140 campers enjoyed a varied program of fun, education, and fellowship during the six week season.

YMCA General Secretary Harold Caldwell states that this first day camp experiment has proved to be a huge success, and that experiences gained by campers have been beneficial.

The day camp committee was comprised of Orville Cluck, chairman; John Powers, transportation chairman; Clyde Betts, Jr., Mrs. Russell DeLong, Donald Gerrity, Carl Reitz, O. E. Norbeck, YMCA associate general secretary; Janet Cluff, and George A. Spelling, Co-Directors.

George Spelling and Miss Cluff served as co-directors and were responsible for organization and administration of the camp program. The daily program included morning devotions; project period in which campers were taught to handle different responsibilities; song, game, arts, crafts and free play periods; also an instruction period in which guest speakers were invited to instruct and entertain the campers. Included as guest speakers were: Joseph Stevens, subject of archery; Oliver Hobbs, fishing and casting; Mrs. Russell DeLong, bird study; Harold Caldwell, story hours; O. E. Norbeck, Indian lore; Mr. Whipp, magic; Harry Hollenbach, imitations and mimicry; and J. Watson, fishing.

The campers of each period prepared an original program to climax their camping experience. These programs were presented to parents on the scheduled parents' nights. The first parents' night featured a program of Indian lore, which was held in a replica of an authentic Indian council ring. This was under supervision of Mr. Norbeck.

The second parents' night featured a program entitled "Christmas in July." This included a puppet show given by the campers in which the spirit of brotherhood, love, and peace was the theme. The presentation was written, directed, and supervised by Miss Cluff. The campers of the third camping period had as their project a camp circus, which was to be presented on the final parents' night. Unfortunately due to the inclement weather this was cancelled.

Joan Anderson and David Fisher served as senior counselors of the day camp.

Future Plans

Mr. Norbeck states that this program has just been one of many experiences which Lower Bucks YMCA is planning for the youth of this area. Various activities are being planned by Mr. Spelling which will include boys leaders corps, boys recreation program, girls recreation program, adult recreation club, sports leagues, and program of social dances.

"Your YMCA has been endeavoring to fulfill the needs of an ever growing population and is striving to promote various activities which will meet the needs, interests, and capacities of the people of this area," states a representative. "Complete information on YMCA program can be secured at Bristol Branch YMCA Building, 906 Mansion street."

Bucks Fire Chiefs Make Plans For 3 Fire Schools

SELLERSVILLE, Aug. 18 — Approximately 85 Bucks County Fire Chiefs made a tour of the U. S. Gauge Co. plant here preparatory to their regular meeting last night.

The organization, the Bucks County Fire Chiefs Association, agreed unanimously to begin negotiation for three fire schools in the county — one to be situated in the lower area, a second in the center and a third in upper Bucks County. Thus far, only one site has been chosen: the area known as Smith's Meadow in Newportville, Pumping and hosing school will be conducted there on Oct. 17 and 18.

Instructors Picked
Instructors will consist of engineers representing a variety of manufacturers of pumping equipment, associates of underwriters' associations and several fire chiefs still to be chosen.

The tour of the gauge plant forced the meeting to begin at a late hour, and consequently, the school plans were not discussed in great detail.

C. A. Russell, of the Trevoise Heights Rescue Squad, said further information on the classes would be forwarded to members in the mail.

Russell said the pumping and hosing classes constitute only a fraction of the standard curriculum for firemen and that therefore the State would issue no certificates this year for successful completion of these courses.

However, Russell continued, classes next year would be of greater duration and contain a more elaborate list of subjects.

Russell foresaw possible difficulties in the acquisition of two other sites. For one thing, he indicated, the cost of the project might develop at too high a figure and force the association to confine itself to just one central school.

Negotiations On

He said the association is presently negotiating for sites with the Bucks County Commissioners. The necessity of a water source near each of the sites selected was foreseen as another element that may delay selection of the sites.

In the event that all the difficulties are overcome and two other sites are eventually chosen, Russell said the association plans to erect fire towers and other necessary equipment for training on all three sites.

In concluding its report, the fire school committee asked for closer cooperation between neighboring fire companies.

This view was firmly supported and amplified upon by Fire Marshall Robert Graham.

Meeting Held

Chief William Ervin of Cornwells Heights, reported on an executive meeting of the association held Sunday in Doylestown in conjunction with the executive committees of the County Firemen's Association and the Police Chiefs Association.

The groups agreed tentatively to retain counsel jointly on a yearly basis. The action, submitted as a motion, was seconded by Chief Charles Steiner, Fallsington, and was carried unanimously.

A film showing the techniques involved in administering high-pressure fog was run off at the end of the meeting.

It was learned at the meeting that William Levitt was expected to meet momentarily with Fire Marshall Robert Graham and representative chiefs of the association to discuss a site for the proposed Levittown Fire Company.

High School Grad Wins Poster Prize

ALLENTOWN, Aug. 18 — Warren Luch, a graduate of Allentown High School, was awarded first prize of $70 in the 7 to 9 grade group; Barbara Maier, Lincoln School, Allentown, won $50 for first prize in the 4 to 6 grade group, and John Mazur, Greentree Public School, Pittsburgh, will receive $30 for first award in the 1 to 3 grade group.

Second prize winners in the four groups and the prize awards were William C. Bertollet, Reading Senior High School, 10 to 12 grade group, $50; Mary Fartuch, Harrison Morton School, Allentown, 7 to 9 grades, $35; Judith Ann Sold, Herbst School, Allentown, 4 to 6 grades, $25; Judy Wilson, Hay School, Easton, 1 to 3 grades, $15.

Bridge Traffic Plan For Trenton Span To Go Into Effect

MORRISVILLE, Aug. 18 — A plan for diverting traffic coming off the Trenton Bridge into Morrisville will go into effect today.

The plan, presented to the Common Council last night by Burgess William Burgess, will meet the traffic increase expected as a result of the opening today of the final section of the newly constructed bridge approach. New Jersey Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll opened the section from Perry street to the Brunswick traffic circle, in Trenton at 10 a. m.

In Morrisville the approach extends to S. Pennsylvania avenue. Another portion, bringing it an additional three blocks to Snipes Corner, will not be completed until mid-October.

"Traffic will be rerouted to avoid the bad corner at Bridge street and S. Pennsylvania avenue," according to Robert Steward, acting secretary of Common Council. All traffic coming in from Trenton will be diverted into S. Pennsylvania avenue and follow a route to Philadelphia avenue, over S. Delmoor street to E. Bridge street.

Steward said signs will be erected telling motorists of the detour. The Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission has assigned a traffic policeman to the area.

State Sales

billion dollar biennial cost of public education.

To Balance Budget

Passed by the 1953 legislature to balance Gov. John S. Fine's 1.4 billion dollar budget, the impost will be Pennsylvania's only experience with a general sales tax other than short-lived levy used to meet relief rolls during the depression.

Purchasers must pay the impost on each sale, but "sale" is defined by the department to mean the total amount of a transaction.

For example, a consumer who buys six items at the same time in one department of a store pays a tax on the total cost. If he buys one item in six different departments, he pays a tax on each item.

If he buys one or two five-cent items, there is no tax because the total price is less than 11 cents, but if he buys three five-cent items at the same time he must pay one cent tax.

Credit Buying

On credit buying, the full amount of the tax must be paid in cash at the time of the sale or within 30 days.

On lay-aways or budget plans, the full amount of the tax must be included in the first payment.

Federal excise taxes and interest, finance or delivery charges are added to the cost after the tax is figured on the base price.

Discounts to employees and similar price reductions at the time of the sale are not subject to the tax, but the tax must be paid on the total due when a discount is made for prompt payment of a bill.

Value of tangible personal property taken in as part of the price of a taxable item is deducted before tax is added to the price. Consider a man buying a $3000 automobile.

If he is making all the payment in money, he must pay the one per cent sales tax on the full $3000 purchase price. If he is trading in a used car for which he is allowed $1000 then he will pay tax on the remaining $2000 due on the purchase price.

Purchaser Pays

Sale of an automobile, trailer or semi-trailer by anyone other than an authorized dealer is one of the few types of "isolated sales" on which the tax must be paid. The purchaser pays the tax when he applies to the Revenue Department for a certificate of title.

Merchants cannot absorb the tax and must not advertise the tax as part of the price of an item. An article selling for 99 cents may not be advertised at $1 or $1 including tax, but must be listed at 99 cents, 99 cents plus tax or 99 cents plus one cent tax.

If a consumer buys an item out-of-state for use in Pennsylvania, the tax must be paid just as if the item were purchased in the state. The duty of making payment is on the buyer and he must remit the tax to the department if the seller did not collect it.

Merchants are required to make reports to the department for quarterly periods ending the last days of January, April, and July and October. To cover costs, merchants are permitted to keep three per cent of their collections.

All taxes collected above the three per cent, must be remitted, even if the total is more than one per cent of taxable sales.

Separate Items

On written sales slips, the tax must be entered as a separate item. If a cash register shows only the total cost, the merchant must use a separate container for the tax money or keep a tax record sheet.

The merchant is required to open his books for a audits by the Revenue Department and all records upon which his tax returns are based must be preserved for six years.

HULMEVILLE, Aug. 18 — The first annual Lower Bucks County YMCA day camp, held at Shady Rest Lakes, near this borough, came to a conclusion Friday. A total of 140 campers enjoyed a varied program of fun, education, and fellowship during the six week season.

YMCA General Secretary Harold Caldwell states that this first day camp experiment has proved to be a huge success, and that experiences gained by campers have been beneficial.

The day camp committee was comprised of Orville Cline, chairman; John Powers, transportation chairman; Clyde Betts, Jr., Mrs. Russell DeLong, Donald Gerrity, Carl Reitz; O. E. Norbeck, YMCA associate general secretary; Janet Gifford, and George A. Sperling, Co-Directors.

George Sperling and Miss Gifford served as co-directors and were responsible for organization and administration of the camp program. The daily program included morning devotions; project period in which campers were taught to handle different responsibilities; song, game, arts, crafts and free play periods; also an instruction period in which guest speakers were invited to instruct and entertain the campers. Included as guest speakers were: Joseph Stevens, subject of archery; Oliver Hobbs, fishing and casting; Mrs. Russell DeLong, bird study; Harold Caldwell, story hours; O. E. Norbeck, Indian lore; Mr. Whipp, magic; Harry Hollenbach, imitations and mimicry; and J. Watson, fishing.

Prepare Program
The campers of each period prepared an original program to climax their camping experience. These programs were presented to parents on the scheduled parents' nights. The first parents' night featured a program of Indian lore, which was held in a replica of an authentic Indian council ring. This was under supervision of Mr. Norbeck.

The second parents' night featured a program entitled "Christmas in July." This included a puppet show given by the campers in which the spirit of brotherhood, love, and peace was the theme. The presentation was written, directed, and supervised by Miss Gifford. The campers of the third camping period had as their project a camp circus, which was to be presented on the final parents' night. Unfortunately due to the inclement weather this was cancelled.

Joan Anderson and David Fisher served as senior counselors of the day camp.

Future Plans

Mr. Norbeck states that this program has just been one of many experiences which Lower Bucks YMCA is planning for the youth of this area. Various activities are being planned by Mr. Sperling which will include boys leaders corps, boys recreation program, girls recreation program, adult recreation club, sports leagues, and program of social dances.

"Our YMCA has been endeavoring to fulfill the needs of an ever growing population and is striving to promote various activities which will meet the needs, interests, and capacities of the people of this area," states a representative. "Complete information on YMCA program can be secured at Erlot Branch YMCA Building, 906 Mansion street."

Bridge Traffic Plan For Trenton Span To Go Into Effect

MORRISVILLE, Aug. 18 — A plan for diverting traffic coming off the Trenton Bridge into Morrisville will go into effect today.

The plan, presented to the Common Council last night by Burgess William Burgess, will meet the traffic increase expected as a result of the opening today of the final section of the newly constructed bridge approach. New Jersey Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll opened the section from Perry street to the Brunswick traffic circle, in Trenton at 10 a. m.

In Morrisville the approach extends to S. Pennsylvania avenue. Another portion, bringing it an additional three blocks to Snipes Corner, will not be completed until mid-October. "Traffic will be rerouted to avoid the bad corner at Bridge street and S. Pennsylvania avenue," according to Robert Steward, acting secretary of Common Council. All traffic coming in from Trenton will be diverted into S. Pennsylvania avenue and follow a route to Philadelphia avenue, over S. Delmoor street to E. Bridge street.

Steward said signs will be erected telling motorists of the detour. The Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission has assigned a traffic policeman to the area.

State Sales

billion dollar biennial cost of public education.

To Balance Budget

Passed by the 1953 legislature to balance Gov. John S. Fine's 1.4 billion dollar budget, the impost will be Pennsylvania's only experience with a general sales tax other than short-lived levy used to meet relief rolls during the depression.

Purchasers must pay the impost on each sale, but "sale" is defined by the department to mean the total amount of a transaction.

For example, a consumer who buys six items at the same time in one department of a store pays a tax on the total cost. If he buys one item in six different departments, he pays a tax on each item.

If he buys one or two five-cent items, there is no tax because the total price is less than 11 cents, but if he buys three five-cent items at the same time he must pay one cent tax.

Credit Buying

On credit buying, the full amount of the tax must be paid in cash at the time of the sale or within 30 days.

On lay-aways or budget plans, the full amount of the tax must be included in the first payment.

Federal excise taxes and interest, finance or delivery charges are added to the cost after the tax is figured on the base price.

Discounts to employees and similar price reductions at the time of the sale are not subject to the tax, but the tax must be paid on the total due when a discount is made for prompt payment of a bill.

Value of tangible personal property taken in as part of the price of a taxable item is deducted before tax is added to the price.

Consider a man buying a $3000 automobile.

If he is making all the payment in money, he must pay the one per cent sales tax on the full $3000 purchase price. If he is trading in a used car for which he is allowed $1000 then he will pay tax on the remaining $2000 due on the purchase price.

Purchaser Pays

Sale of an automobile, trailer or semi-trailer by anyone other than an authorized dealer is one of the few types of "isolated sales" on which the tax must be paid. The purchaser pays the tax when he applies to the Revenue Department for a certificate of title.

Merchants cannot absorb the tax and must not advertise the tax as part of the price of an item. An article selling for 99 cents may not be advertised at $1 or $1 including tax, but must be listed at 99 cents, 99 cents plus tax or 99 cents plus one cent tax.

If a consumer buys an item out-of-state for use in Pennsylvania, the tax must be paid just as if the item were purchased in the state. The duty of making payment is on the buyer and he must remit the tax to the department if the seller did not collect it.

Merchants are required to make reports to the department for quarterly periods ending the last days of January, April, and July and October. To cover costs, merchants are permitted to keep three per cent of their collections.

All taxes collected above the three per cent, must be remitted even if the total is more than one per cent of taxable sales.

Separate Items

On written sales slips, the tax must be entered as a separate item. If a cash register shows only the total cost, the merchant must use a separate container for the tax money or keep a tax record sheet.

The merchant is required to open his books for an audit by the Revenue Department and all records upon which his tax returns are based must be preserved for six years.

Bucks Fire Chiefs Make Plans For 3 Fire Schools

SELLERSVILLE, Aug. 18 — Approximately 85 Bucks County Fire Chiefs made a tour of the U. S. Gauge Co. plant here preparatory to their regular meeting last night.

The organization, the Bucks County Fire Chiefs Association, agreed unanimously to begin negotiation for three fire schools in the county — one to be situated in the lower area, a second in the center and a third in upper Bucks County.

Thus, far, only one site has been chosen: the area known as Smith's Meadow in Newportville. Pumping and hosing school will be conducted there on Oct. 17 and 18.

Instructors Picked
Instructors will consist of engineers representing a variety of manufacturers of pumping equipment, associates of underwriters' associations and several fire chiefs still to be chosen.

The tour of the gauge plant forced the meeting to begin at a late hour, and consequently, the school plans were not discussed in great detail.

C. A. Russell, of the Trevose Heights Rescue Squad, said further information on the classes would be forwarded to members in the mail.

Russell said the pumping and hosing classes constitute only a fraction of the standard curriculum for firemen and that therefore the State would issue no certificates this year for successful completion of these courses.

However, Russell continued, classes next year would be of greater duration and contain a more elaborate list of subjects.

Russell foresaw possible difficulties in the acquisition of two other sites. For one thing, he indicated, the cost of the project might develop at too high a figure and force the association to confine itself to just one central school.

Negotiations On

He said the association is presently negotiating for sites with the Bucks County Commissioners. The necessity of a water source near each of the sites selected was foreseen as another element that may delay selection of the sites.

In the event that all the difficulties are overcome and two other sites are eventually chosen, Russell said the association plans to erect fire towers and other necessary equipment for training on all three sites.

In concluding its report, the fire school committee asked for closer cooperation between neighboring fire companies.

This view was firmly supported and amplified upon by Fire Marshall Robert Graham.

Meeting Held

Chief William Ervin of Cornwells Heights, reported on an executive meeting of the association held Sunday in Doylestown in conjunction with the executive committees of the County Firemen's Association and the Police Chiefs Association.

The groups agreed tentatively to retain counsel jointly on a yearly basis. The action, submitted as a motion, was seconded by Chief Charles Steiner, Fallsington, and was carried unanimously.

A film showing the techniques involved in administering high-pressure fog was run off at the end of the meeting.

It was learned at the meeting that William Levitt was expected to meet momentarily with Fire Marshall Robert Graham and representative chiefs of the association to discuss a site for the proposed Levittown Fire Company.

High School Grad Wins Poster Prize

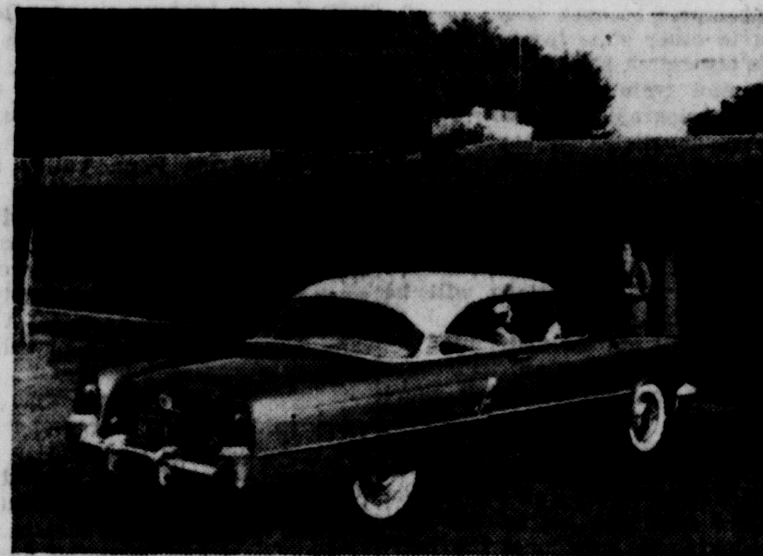

ALLENTOWN, Aug. 18 — Warren Luch, a graduate of Allentown High School, was awarded first prize of $100 in the senior grade group in the annual health poster contest sponsored by The Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania. The winner, who will enter a Philadelphia art school next month, will be presented with his award at the state dinner during the annual meeting of the Medical Society in Pittsburgh, September 22.

Argelinda Grossi, St. Catherine Labour School, Harrisburg, was awarded first prize of $70 in the 7 to 9 grade group; Barbara Maier, Lincoln School, Allentown, won $50 for first prize in the 4 to 6 grade group, and John Mazur, Greentree Public School, Pittsburgh, will receive $30 for first award in the 1 to 3 grade group.

Second prize winners in the four groups and the prize awards were William C. Bertolot, Reading Senior High School, 10 to 12 grade group, $50; Mary Fartuch, Harrison Morton School, Allentown, 7 to 9 grades, $35; Judith Ann Soldrich, Herbst School, Allentown, 4 to 6 grades, $25; Judy Wilson, Hay School, Easton, 1 to 3 grades, $15.

COME SEE HOW TO MAKE YOUR DRIVING UP TO DATE

On your first ride you'll find that Lincoln brings you up to date in more ways than styling. True, Lincoln's long, slim lines offer welcome escape from the bloated bodies of cars designed like yesterday. But Lincoln also brings you a new kind of performance, with both astonishing action and faultless efficiency built into its new 205-horsepower engine.

For in a Lincoln, you're driving the 1-2-3-4 winner among stock cars of the Mexican Pan-American Race, considered the world's toughest test of motoring stamina. At the same time you're driving the fine car champion of the 1953 Mobilgas Economy Run.

And to make your modern driving even more exciting, you can have the wonderful ease of power brakes, power steering, and the 4-way power seat. Truly Lincoln is the one fine car designed for modern living—completely powered for modern driving. Make a date for a drive in the new Lincoln soon.

Power steering, 4-way power seat, power brakes, sea-tint glass, and white side-wall tires optional at extra cost. Don't miss the big television hit, "TOAST OF THE TOWN" with Ed Sullivan, 8:30 to 9:00, Station WCAU, Channel 10.

Assessor Depends

The machinery is not assessed and never has been in Bucks County. When the steel company speaks of a $400,000,000 plant that does not mean there is $400,000,000 worth of property. In many instances 75 per cent of the value is in the machinery. People get the wrong idea and that is what has happened in this instance."

Lacked Figures

When he made the statement concerning the "missing" 20 acres in the assessed acreage of the Levittown shopping center, Duke Sloan, representing the Board of Founders of the Tullytown Taxpayers Association, said his group had been unable to obtain borough assessment figures from Mrs. Strouse.

The new figures valued the Levittown shopping center at $1,151,300. The tax assessment, based on this valuation, amounted to $345,000.

Sloan said his group intended soon to file an appeal on these figures and back up its demand for upgrading by demanding the Tullytown Borough Council hire a surveyor to determine the exact acreage of the shopping center.

Counter-Charges

Mrs. Strouse counter-charged this morning that "Duke Sloan has never asked me about anything—any figures, acreage, or anything else."

"His estimation of the situation is completely wrong," she said. "In preparing the tax assessment figures, we can only go on transfer figures. If people say their property amounts to 60 acres, for instance, you can't take it upon yourself to estimate the acreage at a different figure. Assessments are based entirely on the acreage figures in the transfers."

"He better find out what he's talking about before he goes on to do so much talking."

Duke Sloan intimated that "as soon as we can substantiate our findings, and if the assessments for the Warner Co. are just as low, we will file a formal protest with the county commissioners."

tions, federal and state agencies and farmers' produce.

The first election of permanent officers of the new organization was held at the meeting last night, with the following members elected: Victor Fisher, Sears, Roebuck and Co., president; Michael Curran, Watson and Schwartz, vice-president; Charles M. Fink, J. Halperin and Co., secretary, and William Rickert, Bristol Trust Co., treasurer.

Fink was elected chairman of a committee on by-laws. Harry Kline, P. W. Woolworth Co., was elected chairman of a committee which will seek the appointment of a publicity director. Mrs. Saul Morganstein, Joy Hosliery, was elected chairman of a committee to investigate the matter of advertising media.

Plans for the formal opening of the shopping center also were discussed. Tentative plans call for the contribution and distribution of a number of prizes on the occasion of the opening.

Provide A Spot For Shoe Shines

Keeping shoe-shine supplies together in a convenient spot will make it easier to keep your foot-gear looking brand spanking new.

You can fix up a small storage area for items like this quite simply by cutting out the wall space between the studs near the floor in kitchen, bedroom or bathroom. Line the back of the opening between two studs with a piece of 1/4" fir plywood.

Set a simple frame around the opening and install a flush or lipped fir plywood door. Then set in a couple of shelves for polishes, bottles and brushes.

A 3/4" piece of plywood about a foot long and 3" wide can be fastened with a hinge at the bottom so it swings up when the door is closed. When it is down with the door open it makes a handy foot rest for polishing shoes.

ing party combing an area on the 160-acre Veterans Administration paraplegic treatment center, found five cramped victims in an abandoned double - doored, nine - foot wooden ice-box.

The dead youngsters were Edward, 9; Wesley, 7; Odie and Tommy, four-year-old twins, and Barbara Ann, 2, children of Mrs. Annie Bell Hallman, wife of a tenant farmer.

Mrs. Hallman was picking cotton when the search parties closed in on the wooden ice-box.

Near Collapse

Sobbing and very near complete collapse, the mother cried, "I told them never to get inside or they might freeze to death."

About 200 police and firemen volunteers found the bodies of two other victims in an abandoned ice-box resting in a dump about 200 yards from their homes in Haverhill, Mass.

Lucien Duval, uncle of Edward P. Ferguson, 3, one of the victims, told searchers he had just finished reading about the other deaths and had decided to take a look in the abandoned ice-box. The other dead child was Michael T. Rogers, 4.

In a fit of rage, and with tears coursing down his face, one member of the searching party smashed the ice-box to bits with a heavy piece of timber.

"Deputy Coroner Goldfarb still winces when he recalls his interview with Mrs. Betty Kugel, mother of Kenneth, 3, and Joann, 7, who suffocated in a refrigerator in their Newportville home in November, 1952.

Mother Working

When the tragedy occurred, the widowed mother was working for several hours at a neighborhood store in an effort to pay the difference between the State Relief allowance and what she had spent for food.

"I tried so hard to keep them," she moaned as a ring of neighbors tried to comfort her.

Mrs. Kugel left for work at 11 in the morning. Another child, Nancy, missed the bus to the parochial school she attended at Penn-del, and remained at home with her brother and sister.

Saw Trio

Neighbors said they had seen the trio playing about the house much as they might have on many other occasions.

But shortly after four o'clock, a neighbor, Mrs. John Dyer, said she heard screams from the Kugel house, a three-room bungalow recessed on a lawn off Avenue A.

Nancy said the three had played outside until about 2 in the afternoon, when her brother and sister left her to play inside the house.

When she tried to enter the house later, Nancy said she found the door fastened by a chain. She climbed through a window, released the door chain and admitted her mother who had just then arrived.

Search Home

Mother and daughter searched the small house for a time in vain until Nancy opened the refrigerator to look for a snack.

The children were dead. Joann was squeezed in a corner of the food compartment and Kenneth was propped against her.

The refrigerator door had been shut tight. Electricity to the appliance had been turned off for more than a day to permit the refrigerator to defrost.

The ice-box measured 2 1/2 by 2 by 3 feet.

Local authorities were perplexed by some details in their investigation of the deaths, but finally attributed them to the unpredictable acts of children.

Certificates Issued

An autopsy was performed in the John C. Black Funeral Home in Bristol and certificates of accidental suffocation were issued by Bucks County Coroner Russell J. T. Ferris.

A short time after the deaths of the Newportville children, State Senator Edward B. Watson introduced a bill in the legislature aimed at curbing the incidence of such deaths on the strong urgings of Coroner Russell J. T. Ferris and his deputy, Dr. Goldfarb.

The bill required the removal of all hinges and doors from old or abandoned ice-boxes on pain of a $300 fine. Manufacturers also were to have been required to supply safety latches on their products.

Coroner Ferris said yesterday, though the bill was definitely introduced last year by Senator Watson, he feared it must have been bottled up in committee or else withered on the vine of some legislative calendar. He said he has heard nothing further about it since that time.

Health Officer Gives Hay Fever Advice

Sneezing and nose blowing is in style in Lower Bucks County again. Hay fever season started officially on Saturday and it will be with us until the first frost.

Christopher J. Buchler, Bristol borough health officer admits, along with everyone else, that there's not much that can be done to eliminate the problem. However, he suggests three things that will help alleviate suffering. "Cut down the ragweed," is first on his list. Ragweed is the villain where hay fever sufferers are concerned.

Another Aid

Buchler feels that air conditioning is another big aid to hay fever sufferers. Where finances will allow, home air conditioning may relieve the suffering so that sleep is possible. Buchler names injections as the third help. These are available on the advice of the family doctor.

He also warns hay fever sufferers to be careful about getting colds. "That just makes it twice as bad," he says.

Hay fever is more than a public health problem with Buchler, who has been borough health officer for about a year. His daughter has been a hay fever sufferer for 35 years. He is familiar with all the symptoms and the methods for lessening the suffering.

Difficult to Estimate

Hay fever is not one of the ailments that doctors are required to report to the health officer, so it is difficult to estimate the number of cases in the area. Buchler says, "I imagine there are at least 100 cases in Bristol borough."

Until science discovers a wonder drug that will do away with hay fever, these sufferers, plus the hundreds of others across the country can do little more than sniff, sneeze and blow.

the machinery is not assessed and never has been in Bucks County. When the steel company speaks of a $400,000,000 plant that does not mean there is $400,000,000 worth of property. In many instances 75 per cent of the value is in the machinery. People get the wrong idea and that is what has happened in this instance."

Lacked Figures

When he made the statement concerning the "missing" 20 acres in the assessed acreage of the Levittown shopping center, Duke Sloan, representing the Board of Founders of the Tullytown Taxpayers Association, said his group had been unable to obtain borough assessment figures from Mrs. Strouse.

The new figures valued the Levittown shopping center at $1,151,300. The tax assessment, based on this valuation, amounted to $345,000.

Sloan said his group intended soon to file an appeal on these figures and back up its demand for upgrading by demanding the Tullytown Borough Council hire a surveyor to determine the exact acreage of the shopping center.

Counter-Charges

Mrs. Strouse counter-charged this morning that "Duke Sloan has never asked me about anything—any figures, acreage, or anything else."

"His estimation of the situation is completely wrong," she said. "In preparing the tax assessment figures, we can only go on transfer figures. If people say their property amounts to 60 acres, for instance, you can't take it upon yourself to estimate the acreage at a different figure. Assessments are based entirely on the acreage figures in the transfers."

"He better find out what he's talking about before he goes on to do so much talking."

Duke Sloan intimated that "as soon as we can substantiate our findings, and if the assessments for the Warner Co. are just as low, we will file a formal protest with the county commissioners."

tions, federal and state agencies and farmers' produce.

This first election of permanent officers of the new organization was held at the meeting last night, with the following members elected: Victor Fisher, Sears, Roebuck and Co., president; Michael Curran, Watson and Schwartz, vice-president; Charles M. Fink, J. Halperin and Co., secretary, and William Rickert, Bristol Trust Co., treasurer.

Fink was elected chairman of a committee on by-laws. Harry Kline, F. W. Woolworth Co., was elected chairman of a committee which will seek the appointment of a publicity director. Mrs. Saul Morganstein, Joy Hosliery, was elected chairman of a committee to investigate the matter of advertising media.

Plans for the formal opening of the shopping center also were discussed. Tentative plans call for the contribution and distribution of a number of prizes on the occasion of the opening.

Provide A Spot For Shoe Shines

Keeping shoe-shine supplies together in a convenient spot will make it easier to keep your footgear looking brand spanking new.

You can fix up a small storage area for items like this quite simply by cutting out the wall space between the studs near the floor in kitchen, bedroom or bathroom. Line the back of the opening between two studs with a piece of 1/4" fir plywood.

Set a simple frame around the opening and install a flush or lipped fir plywood door. Then set in a couple of shelves for polishes, bottles and brushes.

A 1/2" piece of plywood about a foot long and 3" wide can be fastened with a hinge at the bottom so it swings up when the door is closed. When it is down with the door open, it makes a handy foot rest for polishing shoes.

ing party coming an area on the 160-acre Veterans Administration paraplegic treatment center, found five cramped victims in an abandoned double-doored, nine-foot wooden ice-box.

The dead youngsters were Edward, 9; Wesley, 7; Odie and Tommy, four-year-old twins, and Barbara Ann, 2, children of Mrs. Annie Bell Hallman, wife of a tenant farmer.

Mrs. Hallman was picking cotton when the search parties closed in on the wooden ice-box.

Near Collapse
Sobbing and very near complete collapse, the mother cried, "I told them never to get inside or they might freeze to death."

About 200 police and firemen volunteers found the bodies of two other victims in an abandoned ice-box resting in a dump about 200

yards from their homes in Haverhill, Mass.

Lucien Duval, uncle of Edward P. Ferguson, 3, one of the victims, told searchers he had just finished reading about the other deaths and had decided to take a look in the abandoned ice-box. The other dead child was Michael T. Rogers, 4.

In a fit of rage, and with tears coursing down his face, one member of the searching party smashed the ice-box to bits with a heavy piece of timber.

Deputy Coroner Goldfarb still winces when he recalls his interview with Mrs. Betty Kugel, mother of Kenneth, 3, and Joann, 7, who suffocated in a refrigerator in their Newportville home in November, 1952.

Mother Working

When the tragedy occurred, the widowed mother was working for several hours at a neighborhood store in an effort to pay the difference between the State Relief allowance and what she had spent for food.

"I tried so hard to keep them," she moaned as a ring of neighbors tried to comfort her.

Mrs. Kugel left for work at 11 in the morning. Another child, Nancy, missed the bus to the parochial school she attended at Penned, and remained at home with her brother and sister.

Saw Trio

Neighbors said they had seen the trio playing about the house much as they might have on many other occasions.

But shortly after four o'clock, a neighbor, Mrs. John Dyer, said she heard screams from the Kugel house, a three-room bungalow recessed on a lawn off Avenue A.

Nancy said the three had played outside until about 2 in the afternoon, when her brother and sister left her to play inside the house.

When she tried to enter the house later, Nancy said she found the door fastened by a chain. She climbed through a window, released the door chain and admitted her mother who had just then arrived.

Search Home

Mother and daughter searched the small house for a time in vain until Nancy opened the refrigerator to look for a snack.

The children were dead. Joann was squeezed in a corner of the food compartment and Kenneth was propped against her.

The refrigerator door had been shut tight. Electricity to the appliance had been turned off for more than a day to permit the refrigerator to defrost.

The ice-box measured 2 1/2 by 2 by 3 feet.

Local authorities were perplexed by some details in their investigation of the deaths, but finally attributed them to the unpredictable acts of children.

Certificates Issued

An autopsy was performed in the John C. Black Funeral Home in Bristol and certificates of accidental suffocation were issued by Bucks County Coroner Russell J. T. Ferris.

A short time after the deaths of the Newportville children, State Senator Edward B. Watson introduced a bill in the legislature aimed at curbing the incidence of such deaths on the strong urgings of Coroner Russell J. T. Ferris and his deputy, Dr. Goldfarb.

The bill required the removal of all hinges and doors from old or abandoned ice-boxes on pain of a $300 fine. Manufacturers also were to have been required to supply safety latches on their products.

Coroner Ferris said yesterday, though the bill was definitely introduced last year by Senator Watson, he feared it must have been bottled up in committee or else withered on the vine of some legislative calendar. He said he has heard nothing further about it since that time.

Mr. Nixon was also in Peru and showed pictures of the snow-capped Andes. He had taken pictures in Peru of albatross and penguins. Though it was near the equator, the Humboldt current flowing along the Pacific shore cools the air.

A quiz followed on natural science topics.

Announcement was made of the field trip Sept. 19th near Quakertown, the leader to be Dr. Paul L. Gruber, a member of the staff of the public schools of Bucks county. Places of geologic interest will be visited.

Health Officer Gives Hay Fever Advice

Sneezing and nose blowing is in style in Lower Bucks County again. Hay fever season started officially on Saturday and it will be with us until the first frost.

Christopher J. Buchler, Bristol borough health officer admits, along with everyone else, that there's not much that can be done to eliminate the problem. However, he suggests three things that will help alleviate suffering. "Cut down the ragweed," is first on his list. Ragweed is the villain where hay fever sufferers are concerned.

Another Aid

Buchler feels that air conditioning is another big aid to hay fever sufferers. Where finances will allow, home air conditioning may relieve the suffering so that sleep is possible. Buchler names injections as the third help. These are available on the advice of the family doctor.

He also warns hay fever sufferers to be careful about getting colds. "That just makes it twice as bad," he says.

Hay fever is more than a public health problem with Buchler, who has been borough health officer for about a year. His daughter has been a hay fever sufferer for 35 years. He is familiar with all the symptoms and the methods for lessening the suffering.

Difficult to Estimate

Hay fever is not one of the all-ments that doctors are required to report to the health officer, so it is difficult to estimate the number of cases in the area. Buchler says, "I imagine there are at least 100 cases in Bristol borough."

Until science discovers a wonder drug that will do away with hay fever, these sufferers, plus the hundreds of others across the country can do little more than sniff, sneeze and blow.

WEST BRISTOL

A month's trip by motor was concluded Thursday by Mr. and Mrs. George White, of 6th and Steele avenues. They motored to Yellowstone National Park, Wyo.; Glacier National Park, Mont.; Black Hills and Bad Lands of South Dakota; and to Agate Beach, Ore.

'Orpheus' to Have Premier Tonight

LAMBERTVILLE, N. J., Aug. 18 — Jacques Offenbach's opera bouffe "Orpheus in the Underworld" adapted by Edward Eager from an English translation by Ring Lardner, Sr. will have its pre-Broadway world premiere at St. John Terrell's Music Circus, here tonight. This marks the first time that Impresario Terrell has ever attempted a new musical at his colorful tent theatre which is now in its 5th season.

The late, great Ring Lardner adapted the libretto of Hector Crémieux and changed the Act I setting from Paris, 1858, to Maine, 1927. The second act, of course, takes place in heaven, and the third in Hades. Edward Eager has in turn adapted the book and lyrics of Lardner's. Sylvan Levin has rearranged the Offenbach score and there is new choreography by Rex Cooper. The decor is by James Hamilton. Robert C. Jarvis did the staging.

In casting this exciting musical Terrell has brought together one of the most talented as well as the largest company of featured performers ever presented on the Music Circus stage. The cast includes Ralph Herbert as Jupiter, Jo Sullivan as Eurydice, Morley Meredith as Joe Orpheus, Marjane Maricle as Venus, Peggy O'Hara as Cupid, Robert Peyti as Pluto, Lulu Bates as Juno, Muriel O'Malley as Mrs. Bane, Earl William as John Stick and Rowan Tudor as Mars.

Text:

"Where sin abounded, grace did much more abound" (Romans 5:20).

Sin abounding! How dreadful the very thought! And yet it is quite clear that sin is a terrible monarch reigning over everything, and everyone associated with it. Sin debauches the body, demoralizes the mind, divides the home, and destroys the soul.

But then, there is grace abounding! How delightful the very thought that God condescended to rescue fallen man from the penalty and power of sin! Sin need not reign in any heart or home. The grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men, in order that grace might reign through righteousness unto eternal life by Jesus Christ our Lord (Romans 5:21).

Banish Double Chin Trouble

At the very first sign of double trouble, get a heavy cream and go to work massaging that extra chin away.

By HELEN FOLLETT

WHEN there's a suspicion of fullness under the chin, take care! Your chin may have decided to go double. It is surprising how quickly that spare pouch may develop.

At the first sign of fullness, get busy. Facial operators in beauty shops claim that they can roll two chins into one and they often do it. The beauty seeker can roll her own. She mustn't get discouraged because it takes time to dissolve fat cells.

Press Deeply

Apply a heavy cream, one that will offer resistance to your fingers, making them press deeply into the flesh. Massage your neck with up and down movements. From chin tip to throat, pick up the flesh between thumb and first finger and use pressure.

Do light little pinches; facial operators call it fluting. Work from chin tip along the jaw line. Place the knuckles of your hands on either side of the chin and iron from center to side.

While the cream remains on, friction with an ice cube. This part of the treatment is necessary so that, with the dissolution of adipose tissue, the flesh will not be flabby. Every morning dash on cold water and apply an astringent with pledgets of cotton.

This is the precise time when you must pay strict attention to diet. You wouldn't have the zipper problem and the chin-chin worry if you were burning up your calories instead of storing them away on your body.

Slow up on fats, sweets and starches. Eat fruit, green salads and lean meat. They provide protein. You can nip off a pound or two a week as easy as pie. Do this and you will not only look better but will feel better, too.

Kiwanis To Discuss Tax Assessments

PENNDL, Aug. 18—Tax assessments will be the topic of an informal round table discussion at tonight's meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Bucks County-Lincoln Highway. The group will meet at 6:45 p. m. at Flannery's Restaurant.

The group will hold a panel discussion on the subject early in the fall, according to John A. Crowley, immediate past president. This is a part of a series of meetings on the general topic of "Consolidation in Lower Bucks County."

Proposed realignment of Division 13 will also be discussed by the group. The realignment would place the group in the Philadelphia division of Kiwanis club rather than in the suburban division.

Horticulturists Anticipate 27th Fall Show At Trevoze

TREVOZE, Aug. 18 — Specimen, arrangement, commercial, and invitation classes will attract flower growers when the 27th annual fall show is staged by Trevoze Horticultural Society in the community house, here. Dates are Sept. 11 and 12, the show to be open to the public starting at three p. m. the first day, and 10 a. m. the second day.

In the specimen classes will be all types of autumn blooms — asters, dahlias, gladioli, marigolds, nasturtiums, petunias, roses, zinnias, as well as vines, ornamental gourds and potted plants. Containers will be provided in many classes.

In arrangement group (open to all) there are some unique "titles" — such as one "sugesting moonlight," marine study, one in weather-worn piece of wood, one expressing motion, in wood or wicker container, vegetables in kitchen container, fruit and flowers in vertical arrangement for drama effect, "much from little" in flat container, and son on. For the kiddies there will be arrangement in an animal container; and for men "as you like it." Miniatures will be in a pitcher not over six inches; one in a sea shell, and miniature not over three inches in any dimension.

The invitation class will stress simplicity, not over 15 inches in any dimension.

President Earl P. Allabach, Phila., announces the following show committeemen: General chairman, Mrs. W. H. Cocklin, Glen-side; co-chairman, Mrs. A. K. Hager, Jr., Melrose Park; special chairman — Schedule, W. H. Cocklin; decorations, A. K. Hager, J. Byron Comley; entries, Mrs. J. Bryon Comley, Sr., Southampton; hospitality, Mrs. Earl P. Allabach, Phila.; judges, Dr. Ethel R. Hank-ele, Nesaminy; prizes, Mrs. Florence Muller, Croydon R. D., property, Elmer Warner, Trevoze, public, Horace Johnson, Phila.; staging, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pot-ter, North Wales; commercial exhib-its, Harold W. West, Trenton, N. J.; restoration, Herbert Ricker, Somerton.

Text:
"Where sin abounded, grace did much more abound" (Romans 5:20).

Sin abounding! How dreadful the very thought! And yet it is quite clear that sin is a terrible monarch reigning over everything, and everyone associated with it. Sin debauches the body, demoralizes the mind, divides the home, and destroys the soul.

But then, there is grace abounding! How delightful the very thought that God condescended to rescue fallen man from the penalty and power of sin! Sin need not reign in any heart or home. The grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men, in order that grace might reign through righteousness unto eternal life by Jesus Christ our Lord (Romans 5:21).

Banish Double Chin Trouble

At the very first sign of double trouble, get a heavy cream and go to work massaging that extra chin away.

By HELEN FOLLETT

WHEN there's a suspicion of fullness under the chin, take care! Your chin may have decided to go double. It is surprising how quickly that spare pouch may develop.

At the first sign of fullness, get busy. Facial operators in beauty shops claim that they can roll two chins into one and they often do it. The beauty seeker can roll her own. She mustn't get discouraged because it takes time to dissolve fat cells.

Press Deeply

Apply a heavy cream, one that will offer resistance to your fingers, making them press deeply into the flesh. Massage your neck with up and down movements. From chin tip to throat, pick up the flesh between thumb and first finger and use pressure.

Do light little pinches; facial operators call it fluting. Work from chin tip along the jaw line. Place the knuckles of your hands on either side of the chin and iron from center to side.

While the cream remains on, friction with an ice cube. This part of the treatment is necessary so that, with the dissolution of adipose tissue, the flesh will not be flabby. Every morning dash on cold water and apply an astringent with pledgets of cotton.

This is the precise time when you must pay strict attention to diet. You wouldn't have the zipper problem and the chin-chin worry if you were burning up your calories instead of storing them away on your body.

Slow up on fats, sweets and starches. Eat fruit, green salads and lean meat. They provide protein. You can nip off a pound or two a week as easy as pie. Do this and you will not only look better but will feel better, too.

Thompsons Return From Trip Abroad

A Bristol couple has concluded a three months European tour, returning home Saturday aboard the Nieu Amsterdam, Southampton, England, to Hoboken, N. J.

The travelers, Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Thompson, 909 Radcliffe street, made the two-way crossing by boat; and while abroad journeyed to many points of interest by plane, train and boat.

The Nieu Amsterdam was delayed 10 hours on the return trip at the end of the week, due to heavy seas caused by the hurricane.

Countries toured by the Bristol residents were: Holland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, France, Switzerland, Germany, Italy, Yugoslavia, Austria, England.

Temple Shalom Slates Meeting

The Reform Jewish Congregation of Levittown, Temple Shalom, will meet Monday, Aug. 24 at 8.30 p. m. at the Delhaas High School, on Route 413.

At this meeting a constitution will be presented to the congregation for ratification. The slate for the forthcoming elections will be presented, by the nomination committee.

Merrily We Roll

The automobile—once considered an expensive luxury—has become a necessary working tool to two-thirds of our American families. A recent survey showed also that more than half of all the employed persons in the United States use passenger cars in earning their living. Production and distribution of motor cars furnishes more than 1,000,000 people with jobs.

Employee Wins Unique Award

A Federal employee who suggested elimination of his own job has received an award of $275 and another job as a result of his zeal for government economy.

John A. Overholt, former chief of the performance rating section of the Civil Service Commission, suggested that his entire section be cut up and transferred to other units. His suggestion was adopted, but instead of being out of a job, Overholt received a cash award, a certificate, and another post.

Registrations Rise To Total of 982

A total of 982 voters have been registered by Bucks County's traveling registrars since Aug. 3.

In Lower Bucks County, yesterday, they registered 110. In the sixth ward of Bristol township, one Republican, one no party and one independent were registered.

The first district of Upper Falls township registered one Republican. The fourth district registered 47 Republicans and 10 Democrats. Lower district of Middletown township registered two Republicans and three Democrats. The upper district registered one Republican.

Pennel borough registered two Democrats. Tullytown borough registered 29 Republicans, 29 Democrats and three no party.

The registrars will sit today in the townships of Newtown, Richland and Warrington. Newtown township voters may register from 2 p. m. to 9 p. m. at the Newtown Ford building, N. Sycamore street.

Kiwanis To Discuss Tax Assessments

PENNDL, Aug. 18—Tax assessments will be the topic of an informal round table discussion at tonight's meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Bucks County-Lincoln Highway. The group will meet at 6.45 p. m. at Flannery's Restaurant.

The group will hold a panel discussion on the subject early in the fall, according to John A. Crowley, immediate past president. This is a part of a series of meetings on the general topic of "Consolidation in Lower Bucks County."

Proposed realignment of Division 13 will also be discussed by the group. The realignment would place the group in the Philadelphia division of Kiwanis club rather than in the suburban division.

'Orpheus' to Have Premier Tonight

LAMBERTVILLE, N. J., Aug. 18 — Jacques Offenbach's opera bouffe "Orpheus in the Underworld" adapted by Edward Eager from an English translation by Ring Lardner, Sr. will have its pre-Broadway world premiere at St. John Terrell's Music Circus, here tonight. This marks the first time that Impressario Terrell has ever attempted a new musical at his colorful tent theatre which is now in its 5th season.

The late, great Ring Lardner adapted the libretto of Hector Creieux and changed the Act I setting from Paris, 1858, to Maine, 1927. The second act, of course, takes place in heaven, and the third in Hades. Edward Eager has in turn adapted the book and lyrics of Lardner's. Sylvan Levin has rearranged the Offenbach score and there is new choreography by Rex Cooper. The decor is by James Hamilton. Robert C. Jarvis did the staging.

In casting this exciting musical Terrell has brought together one of the most talented as well as the largest company of featured performers ever presented on the Music Circus stage. The cast includes Ralph Herbert as Jupiter, Jo Sullivan as Eurydice, Morley Meredith as Joe Orpheus, Marjane Maricle as Venus, Peggy O'Hara as Cupid, Robert Feyt as Pluto, Lulu Bates as Juno, Muriel O'Malley as Mrs. Banq, Earl William as John Stick and Rowan Tudor as Mars.

Arthritis?

I have been wonderfully blessed in being restored to active life after being crippled in nearly every joint in my body and with muscular soreness from head to foot. I had Rheumatoid Arthritis and other forms of Rheumatism, hands deformed and my ankles were set.

Limited space prohibits telling you more here but if you will write me I will reply at once and tell you how I received this wonderful relief.

Leedom Clan Holds Its 66th Reunion

NEWTOWN, Aug. 18 — Vincent Leedom, Newtown, was re-elected president of the descendants of Elisha and Jane Leedom at the 66th annual reunion held Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Leedom, Lindenhurst Road.

Fred Leedom, Bristol, was re-elected vice president; Mrs. Meta Griffith, Morrisville, secretary; Mrs. Willard A. Leedom, Newtown, treasurer; and Mrs. Fred Leedom, Bristol, historian.

Mrs. Judson Slocum, 86, Washington Crossing, was the oldest member of the family present; Ronald Bowman, five, Fallington, the youngest; and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Church, Langhorne, the oldest married couple present, having been wed 56 years.

Present were: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bowman and children; Joyce Satterthwaite, Fallington; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dederer and daughter "Connie"; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Church, Langhorne; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cooper, Mrs. Judson Slocum, Mrs. Mary Wilson, Washington Crossing; Mr. William Griffith, Mrs. Meta Griffith, John Leedom, Morrisville; Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Leedom and daughter Kaye, Augustus Leedom, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Longshore, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Leedom, Mr. and Mrs. Willard A. Leedom, Sr. and Mrs. Lester Leedom, Robert and Mary Ann Leedom, Newtown; Miss Nellie Starkey, Vineland, N. J.; Mrs. William Rothelmer, Yardley; Elwood Carlen, Langhorne R. D.

The 67th reunion of these families will be held the same place next year.

Three marriages, three deaths and two births were reported.

Catholic Men Make Plans for Action

NEWTOWN, Aug. 18 — Twenty-five members of Newtown Catholic Men's Association met Wednesday evening at the home of George Benetz, Raymond V. Hennessy, president, conducted the business meeting.

Further plans were made for the country auction, to be held on the parish school grounds Sept. 12th. Joseph Gorski is general chairman of the auction, assisted by William Grace, Thomas Zogorski, Charles Tichenor, Joseph Higgins, Michael Heverin, Walter Supina and Albert Linquan.

In conjunction with the auction, women of the parish, under the direction of Mrs. Peter J. Higgins, president of the Ladies Social Club, will run a country fair, with all kinds of things to eat, fancy work to sell, home baked goods, etc.

An Eastern company expects to put on the market next spring an insect screen woven of synthetic yarns. Researchers say it has withstood tests in an arc light, fresh and salt water spray, and exposure to fungi without becoming unserviceable.

Yardley Native Charged in Theft

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18 — John F. DeVine, a native of Yardley, was held under $1000 bail yesterday by U. S. Commissioner Henry P. Carr, charged with theft of a letter containing a $280 check.

More recently a resident of Camden, N. J., DeVine gave his address as 13th and Filbert streets, this city. He was arrested by postal inspectors as he tried to cash the check in a downtown department store.

Store employees, suspicious of an altered identification card presented by the Yardley native, called a store detective who held him for postal authorities. At a hearing in the Federal Building, inspectors testified that the check was addressed to D. W. Scola, a Philadelphia tailor.

DeVine said he spent several years in a German prisoner of war camp in World War II. He also had served a prison term for an auto theft in New Jersey.

Present were: Mr. and Mrs. Satterthwaite, Fallington; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dederer and daughter "Connie"; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Church, Langhorne; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cooper, Mrs. Judson Slocum, Mrs. Mary Wilson, Washington Crossing; Mr. William Griffith, Mrs. Meta Griffith, John Leedom, Morrisville; Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Leedom and daughter Kaye, Augustus Leedom, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Longshore, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Leedom, Mr. and Mrs. Willard A. Leedom, Sr. and Mrs. Lester Leedom, Robert and Mary Ann Leedom, Newtown; Miss Nellie Starkey, Vineland, N. J.; Mrs. William Rothelmer, Yardley; Elwood Carlen, Langhorne R. D.

The 67th reunion of these families will be held the same place next year.

Three marriages, three deaths and two births were reported.

Sportsmen Slate Basket Picnic At Bryans Island

NEW HOPE, Aug. 18—New Hope Sport Clubs Association will hold its first annual basket picnic in several years, September 13th, at Bryans Island, according to Carl Pollock, president.

Under the assistance of committee chairman Joseph Verna, picnic highlights include canoe toppling, archery, skeet and trap matches, fly casting, turkey shoots and other sports events. A program for the children is being planned.

The association, one of the oldest sport clubs in Pennsylvania, played a big part in stocking the Delaware canal with fish this year.

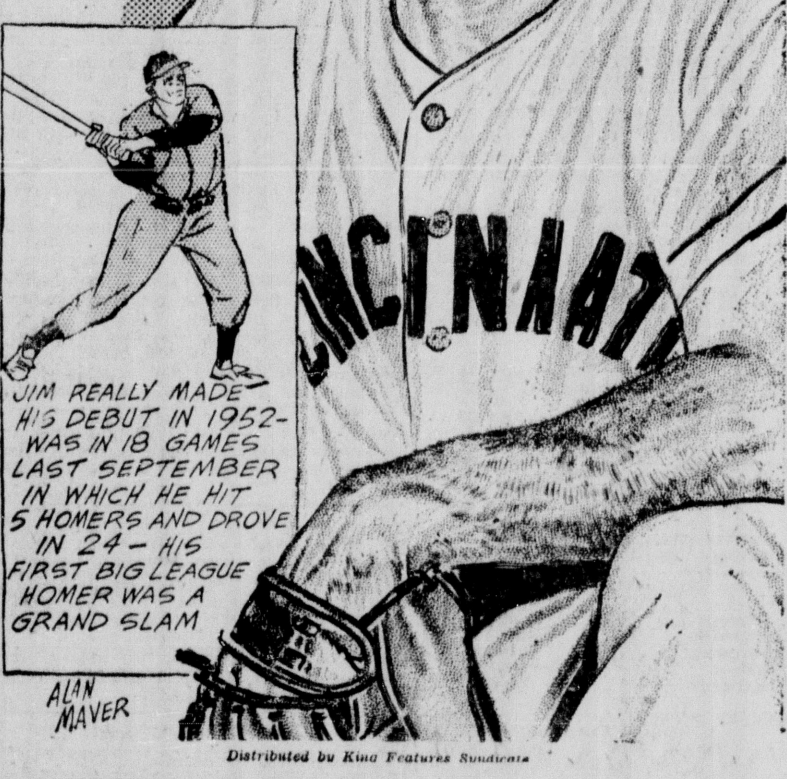

Pollock announced that the club hopes to purchase land of its own this year. The group has been leasing borough property for raising pheasants and other wild life, which is liberated in the New Hope area before hunting season.

Auto-Boys KO Kaiser In Softball League Tilt

Three runs in the second inning Kaiser jumped into a one-run lead in the first. Lou Sassi lined a hit over second. Bill Stockton sacrificed. Sassi going around to third. Sassi scored while Chuck Klein was throwing out Frank Barbetta. Jim Sottile followed with a hit but Ernie Pinelli ended the inning by grounding out.

Last evening's fracas was a mound duel between "Bill" Wigham and Vince DiMucce. The winners had eight hits off DiMucce with Wigham giving the aircraft workers but six scattered hits. Wigham struck out four. DiMucce's support was ragged, five errors being committed by his mates. The errors helped the ultimate winners to score their runs.

Jumps Into Lead

dozi counting. Klein forced Costantino. Tony Cauti and Wigham followed with singles. Klein crossing the plate, Joe Frank fled out.

Three Bagger
Sassi's three-base hit and a single by Stockton gave Kaiser its second run in the third but in the bottom half of the inning, Auto Boys also scored. Sallustio tripled to center and scored when Marty Braam's throw hit him in the back. Saxton also got a hit but Ray Pierandozzi and Fred Costantino could not advance him.

From then on, Wigham and DiMucce pitched scoreless ball. Wigham allowed but two hits in the last six innings while DiMucce gave Auto Boys three hits in their last five turns at the plate. Charlie Uhlund tripled in the seventh but was stranded as Sallustio popped up. Kaiser Metal had two runners on base in the fourth but Marty Braam and DiMucce failed to deliver.

HARRISBURG — Bobwhites are showing encouraging signs of staging a comeback in some areas of the Commonwealth. This little game bird has had a rough time of it since the violent winter of 1936, which almost wiped him out.

Annual Langhorne Cycle Race Set

LANGHORNE, Aug. 18 — The Langhorne Speedway will stage its annual 100-mile motorcycle race Sunday, Sept. 6 with Dick Fisher, '52 winner, out for a new record. Last-year he attained a little more than a minute off the 66 minutes, 17.30 seconds (90.51 mph) held by the late Billy Huber. Bill Miller's upset last year, when he was hurled to the center of the raceway slowed up the '52 pace. Miller will compete this year, as will Leon Applegate of Burlington, N. J., veteran campaigner.

Blood Donors' Members Build New Headquarters

Bristol Blood Donors Emergency Squad members are building these days. Their new building, which is going up at Green lane and Radcliffe street is being constructed by squad members.

Women as well as men help to carry cinder blocks and mix mortar for the 30 by 55 foot building. Present plans call for a one-story structure, with a second story to be added in the future.

The building will have an apparatus floor, which will house the squad's two ambulances and one boat. There will be room for an additional ambulance. A fully equipped dispensary, a meeting room and an office for the duty crew will be included.

Equipment Housed
At the present time equipment is housed in the municipal building. The night duty crews remain at home and are notified by the police. The new building will make it possible for the crew to remain on 24-hour duty in the office.

Raymond A. Tomlinson, squad president predicts "We expect to be in the new building by Christmas." Water lines are in, the ground has been leveled and two-thirds of the cinder block construction is up.

Members Work
Squad members work on the building evenings and weekends and some have taken time off from their jobs to give to the project. Several local concerns have granted the squad the use of their equipment. The building site was made available to the group by Kaiser Metal Products, Inc.

Dominick Borelli, fund drive chairman has announced "Plans are under way for the annual fall fund drive. I feel confident that we can count on the support of Bristol residents to help us, as they have in the past."

Woman To Face Larceny Charge

Arrested in Philadelphia and brought to Bristol police headquarters last week on a warrant charging her with larceny of a wallet, Mrs. Agnes Marszalek, 3064 Livingston street, will be given a hearing tomorrow before Justice of the Peace Edward Lynn, here.

Bail was set at $500. Patrolman Vincent Farragalli was the arresting officer.

Chief Halftown To Entertain Kids At Day Camps

Chief Halftown's visit to Bristol township day camps tomorrow will climax the summer's program of weekly special events.

The chief, a full-blooded Indian and a direct descendant of the Seneca chief of the same name, will be at Maple Shade Day Camp in full regalia to entertain children with Indian songs and stories. His youth talent show is a regular Saturday television feature.

The directors asked that as many children as possible dress as cowboys or Indians. Three-legged races, kangaroo races and a peanut carry relay will be included in the afternoon's program.

All parents and children, including those who have not participated in the summer program were invited to attend. Township school buses will pick the children up at 12 noon at the following stops: bus one, Croydon school and Sunset and Walnut, Croydon; bus two, Maple and Pine streets, Fergusonville, Newportville fire company station, Midway, Laurel Bend school, Orchard and Bath road and bus three, Emilie Corner, Magnolia drive and Magnolia turn.

Bus four will stop at John Fitch School, bus five at William Penn school, Edgely, and bus six at Bristol Terrace School.

In the event of rain Chief Halftown will appear as scheduled and the program will be held indoors.

Children's Use of Firearms

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

ONE father who frequently hunts wild game, and who grew up in a home where he and his brothers learned to use a gun at a very early age, had his own boys learn to shoot before they were ten. Among his friends he often dwelled on the virtue of letting young boys learn to shoot.

Several months ago, this father and his wife went on a hunting trip for a few weeks, leaving their two boys, ten and twelve, at home with the housekeeper. A few days after the parents left, the boys got into a quarrel about a gun, and one shot the other. Though the wound was serious, it fortunately was not fatal.

Too Much Responsibility
Obviously, this father burdened these boys with responsibility they were not prepared to bear. Their practice in the use of a gun had occurred in their father's presence, at which time these lads learned the basic rules of shooting at a target safely. At home, the parents may also have provided an atmosphere of regulation regarding various things, including guns. The housekeeper hardly furnished comparable protection.

It is assuming a great deal about any boy under fourteen, or a bit older, that the very best training and instruction, even in a shooting club, will carry over to possible situations elsewhere.

While this problem was between brothers, it easily could have been with a playmate. A boy of ten, twelve or fourteen, having learned to shoot, might not have been trained in adequate caution about showing his gun at home to other children, especially to those who had no training at all in the proper use of a gun.

Untrained Child

Without adequate guidance in this direction, a boy having learned target-shooting with safety, may not have the slightest notion of the dangers to a playmate who may be allowed to see and handle his gun. You can easily imagine some untrained child grabbing up the gun and pointing it, or actually firing it, at any person near him.

If you have trained your son in the use of a gun at shooting game or at target practice at an earlier age than most boys have been so trained, you have a deep moral obligation to your son and all children coming to your premises, to make sure the visiting children are protected; that, as a rule, they can never see or handle a gun there.

The foregoing principles also apply to archery. Only under strict supervision should children participate, even when a few of them are highly skillful.

Let me add that if your son has acquired considerable skill at archery or rifle shooting at a camp, he still may need considerable guidance and supervision by you about the home or other places when other children are around.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Thou visitest the earth and waterest it, — Ps. 65:9.
There are but a few inches of soil on the surface of the earth in most places, and this earth needs as many inches of rain each year to make it fruitful. The delicate balance of the universe can be accounted for only by assuming God's intimate provision and care. God does provide for his children.

STARVING MILLIONS

Russia has been put on the spot by the wholesale distribution of American food to hungry East Germans in a manner that may cause misery for the Kremlin in days to come. Millions of East Germans have crossed the border into West Germany to obtain the handouts, attesting to the shortage of food in that unhappy land.

If proof were needed that the subject satellite peoples are being starved by the warmongers in Moscow, this is it. Although threatened with death if they accepted the American largesse, the people of East Germany were willing to take any chances to get a little food.

That conditions in other subject countries are equally bad cannot be doubted. Whether much more food is available to the masses in Russia itself is a question that cannot be answered today.

Offers to supply food were scorned by Moscow's agents in East Germany on one pretext or another. Finally Moscow announced it would make food available on an exchange basis, trading food for materials which were needed to buttress Russia's military machine.

But not even a token shipment of Russian food has appeared in East Germany, despite voluble Russian promises.

If Russia has the food available, as its officials say, it must be the purpose of Russia to starve the captive Germans into submission. No further evidence is needed to convict the communists of monumental cruelty, the liquidation of thousands of helpless people. The United States could not feed all the satellite masses indefinitely, if it were possible to get the food to all of them, but by making food available to the East Germans this country has scored a great victory in psychological warfare.

Looks Plus Needed For Wide Screen

By Inez Robb

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 18 — (INS) — Things are tough all over, but there is panic in Hollywood. Word is being passed along, for the first time in Hollywood history, that it will be absolutely, positively imperative for a pretty girl to be able to act if she aspires to be a movie picture star.

I am indebted to Henry Koster for word of this revolutionary trend. Mr. Koster, one of the industry's foremost directors, came by the other day to describe the new problems involved in making pictures for the wide screen and dropped a bombshell.

"Actors will have to be able to act from now on," he prophesied. "A pretty face won't be enough. It will take more than a good profile and a sensational bustline to succeed."

"On the ordinary-sized screen, you can pull the no-talent kids through with technical tricks. But the big screen is pitiless, merciless. In the past, I have directed pretty girls who knew less about acting than I do about tight-wire walking. For them, the wide screen is murder."

Mr. Koster, a serious gentleman, has just completed production of "The Robe" for Twentieth Century-Fox, its first full-length, wide-screen offering. As a result of this experience, he feels that many now-famous Hollywood performers are not long for this rugged, wide-screen world. "It (the wide screen) is going to cause as profound an upheaval as the advent of sound," Mr. Koster said. "A poor actor cannot survive. Many will fall by the wayside. Only the best will remain. Stage experience is essential in this new medium."

The cutie who can't remember her lines will no longer have the consolation of a blackboard from which to read them, the director said. With the wide screen, the blackboard is kaput. Movie actors will have to be able to remember and to play a sustained scene, as do round actors. The old five-second "take" is out.

And where will Hollywood get the necessary actor-type actors to stock the wide screens? Why, said Mr. Koster, from Broadway. He predicts that Hollywood raids on Broadway in the near future will make the old Sioux forays on the great plains seem like heap small potatoes.

"Hollywood will have to work much closer to Broadway," Mr. Koster said. Then he thoughtfully administered another cup of hemlock. "We already get all our fine material from there anyway. I spent last January in New York, raiding Broadway for 'The Robe' and I shall continue to raid for future productions."

The close-up, beloved of Hollywood actors, is on the way out, too. Even an actor with two heads could no longer fill the wide screen in a close-up. There's all that vacant space on each side of the wide screen. The actor either looks silly or "deserted," Mr. Koster explains.

But if the close-up is on the wane, and if stars must be able to act in future Hollywood epics,

NATURE'S SCARCE WEAPON AGAINST POLIO

When polio is around, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis recommends these four precautions: Keep clean, don't get fatigued, avoid new groups, and don't get chilled. If polio does strike, call your doctor, follow his advice, and then contact your local chapter of the National Foundation.

there is one consolation left the movie colony; hardly anyone will end up on the cutting-room floor, always the fate worse than death. The new screen is all silver and a mile wide, more or less, and there's room for everybody in every scene, Mr. Koster declared.

"Name a half dozen pretty movie stars who will survive the wide screen revolution," I asked. "A half dozen?" cried Mr. Koster. "That's not easy!" But he thought hard and came up with the answer. The six who will survive, in his opinion, because they can act are Jean Simmons, June Allyson, Ann Blythe, Susan Hayward, Bette Davis and Katharine Hepburn.

Your Birthday by STELLA

TUESDAY, AUGUST 18—Born today, you have a quick, original and inventive mind. You are alert to opportunity and seem to know the exact moment to act so that you "strike while the iron is hot" and are able to escape your destiny at quite an early age. Your nervous energy often exceeds your physical stamina, however, and you tend to work beyond the point of normal endurance. The stars have given you executive ability. Learn to use it so that you can delegate dull detail to others and leave the creative "idea" work for yourself.

You have a good head for business matters and although you do dislike the actual detail work yourself, you know how to supervise it efficiently. Just make sure that those to whom you delegate the power are trustworthy. It is likely that you will make considerable money during your lifetime, but unless you learn to be a little more saving, you will never die rich!

Your emotions are very near the surface and you should exercise control, especially when it comes to love and romance. You are inclined to place your love on a high pedestal, which leaves you open to disillusionment. If this comes before marriage, you can break things off and find a more suitable choice. If it comes after marriage, you are too loyal not to "stick it out," and then there could be great unhappiness in store. The answer is for you to look very carefully before you leap into marriage.

To find what the stars have in store for tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Sales Tax Forms Mailed To Retailers By State Bureau

HARRISBURG, Aug. 18 — (INS). — Registration forms were mailed to thousands of Pennsylvania retail business establishments which must collect the new 1 per cent general sales tax starting September 1.

State Revenue Secretary Otto Messner said applications were sent to 189,000 employers listed by the State Employment Security Bureau.

He explained the list represents the best available compilations of employers, many of whom will not be required to register as sales tax collectors because they do not sell taxable items.

Operators of firms not covered in the list — such as one-man stores — will be notified next week through local newspapers where registration forms will be available in their areas.

"Everyone will have the opportunity of securing the registration form in plenty of time to meet the Sept. 1 deadline," Messner emphasized.

The law requires all establishments which sell taxable items to publicly display their registration certificates.

The revenue secretary said an official classification of taxable and exempt goods will be ready for publication and distribution before the tax becomes effective.

Generally, the levy covers "all tangible personal property" minus the many exemptions.

The theory that we tend to save more in this country than we can profitably invest, which was one of the reasons for predictions of mass unemployment after World War II, has been thoroughly discredited by events, says a forthcoming Twentieth Century Fund study.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

(Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 — The State of New Mexico could do well to resurvey its election laws and its voting practices. Undoubtedly, there are others that could well do likewise; New Mexico just happens to have hit the limelight.

The advisability of the clean-up has been made clear by the current senate subcommittee investigation of last November's senatorial election, in which democrat Dennis Chavez was declared winner by some 5,000 votes. Republican nominee Patrick J. Hurley challenged his election, charging widespread fraud and illegal balloting.

The senate elections subcommittee, headed by Sen. Frank A. Barrett, R., Wyo., took a preliminary look into Hurley's charges early this year. It found enough substantiation to warrant a full-scale recount and investigation, which now is under way.

It's not a new story in New Mexico. Senator Barrett recently told his colleagues that "every major election in the state of New Mexico for the past 25 years has been protested by the losing party," that almost identical charges were made in the 1936 senatorial election, and that five election contests were fought through on state elective jobs as a result of last November's voting.

"Fraud, illegal voting and flagrant violations of the secrecy of the ballot have been repeatedly charged in election contests in New Mexico," Barrett said.

He pointed out that 13 of the 15 daily newspapers in the state have urged that the current investigation be carried through to parties involved, cost or time consumed.

The subcommittee staff already has produced evidence in the form of sworn affidavits, to substantiate the charges of fraud or improper balloting in thousands of cases. Preliminary reports show score upon score of cases in which election workers, rather than the voter, actually marked the ballots; voters showed their ballots to party workers, to see if they were satisfactorily marked, before depositing them in boxes or no booths of any kind were provided, so that voters had to mark their ballots out in the open, where anyone interested could watch the marking.

The biggest daily newspaper in the state is the Albuquerque Journal, which lists itself as independent politically. It had this to say editorially:

"Whether there will be any change in the outcome remains to be seen. . . . But we have laws governing just how our elections are to be held. We have laws governing the qualifications of voters. We have become careless about observing and following these laws and these regulations. And because of our carelessness there become questions concerning the outcome of an election."

"We fail to follow the regulations regarding the setting up of voting places; secret booths; and the checking voters. We permit campaigning of those backing certain candidates too close to the polls and sometimes within the polls. We know this is not right and the law prohibits it yet we let it be done."

Many other newspapers in the state make similar admissions.

In the light of these facts, the important point becomes not the problem of who is the rightful occupant of the questioned senate seat, but rather the problem of what can be done to clean up our voting practices.

The United States is generally regarded throughout the free world today as the outstanding example of a republic, in which the vote of every citizen — be he of high, medium or low social stature — bears just as much weight as the vote of any other citizen.

The senate voted an additional $37,500, just before it adjourned to allow the subcommittee to complete its investigation. Senator Barrett estimates that this, together with money already on hand, will allow a complete canvass of about 60 per cent of the ballots. Let it cost many times that; it would be more than justified if it helps restore integrity to the election machinery of the nation.

General Health Recorded 'Good'

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 — General health conditions among American wage earners and their families during the first half of 1953 were excellent, despite an outbreak of influenza in the opening months, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company statisticians report.

Mortality among the company's industrial policyholders was 673 per 100,000, close to the all-time low of 667 per 100,000 recorded in the first six months of 1950. Comparable figures for last year and the year before that, were 681 and 685.

The death rate among females established a new low for the six-month period, the mortality declining from last year's in all age groups except 10 to 19 years. Mortality among males during the first half of 1953 was lower than in the comparable period of 1952 at all ages except five to nine years.

Toxoid Disclosed That Delays Polio

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Aug. 18 — Officials of the University of Miami have announced the development of a harmless toxoid, made of snake venom, that "interferes" with the progress of polio in research animals.

Dr. Murray Sanders of the university's department of microbiology said that injections of the toxoid interfered with polio infections up to 24 hours after the polio virus had been introduced into the brains of monkeys.

Dr. Sanders said snake venom, particularly cobra venom, attacks the motor cells of the central nervous system — the same cells affected by polio.

University president Dr. Jay F. W. Pearson emphasized that the results of the four-year research were made public partly to "prevent exaggerated expectations from reports of research still in its intermediate stages."

New Installation To Hike Demand For Fluoridation

HARRISBURG, (INS) Aug. 18 — The State Health Department predicted Philadelphia will touch off community demand to make fluoridated drinking water available throughout the commonwealth.

The Quaker City is installing fluoridation equipment that will go into use before the end of the year.

The department said 900,000 Pennsylvanians are now using water treated with the special compound which will reduce tooth decay by two-thirds in children and be effective lifelong.

The number has jumped from 50,000 a year ago and will be more than three million when the Philadelphia treatment plant is completed.

The department indicated many municipalities are holding up action to see what happens in Philadelphia, although many other cities — including Pittsburgh — are already using fluoridated water.

The largest fluoridation systems now in operation in the state are located in Allegheny County.

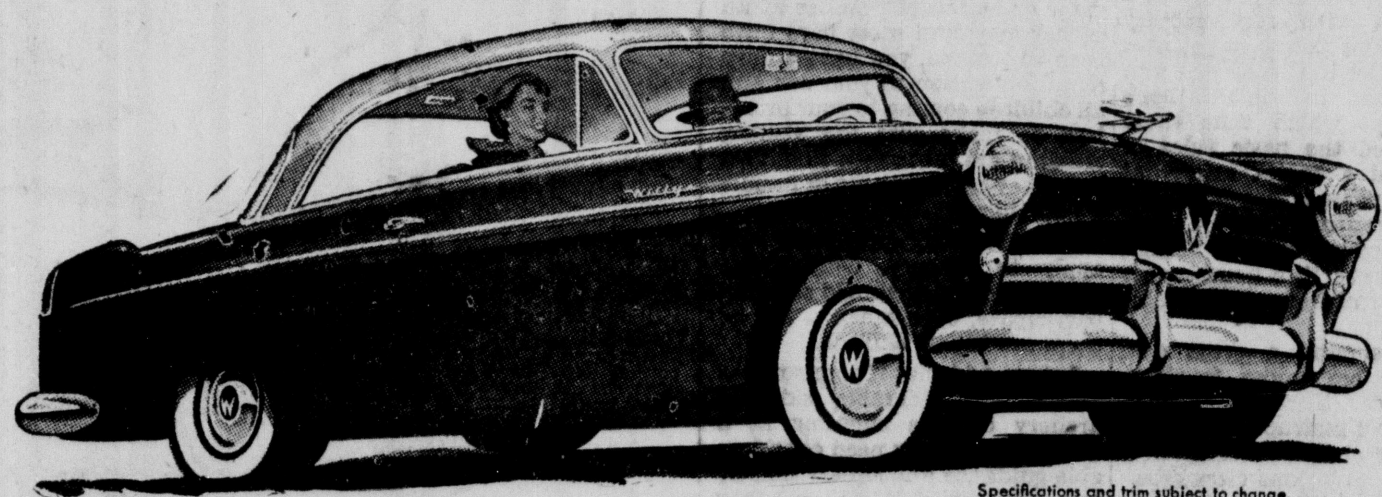

The municipal water supply serves fluoridated water to 600,000 consumers in Pittsburgh and 10 suburban areas, and the Wilkensburg Water Authority supplies 200,000 users in Wilkensburg, 20 nearby communities and 13 wards in Pittsburgh.

Toxoid Disclosed That Delays Polio

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Aug. 18.—Officials of the University of Miami have announced the development of a harmless toxoid, made of snake venom, that "interferes" with the progress of polio in research animals.

Dr. Murray Sanders of the university's department of microbiology said that injections of the toxoid interfered with polio infections up to 24 hours after the polio virus had been introduced into the brains of monkeys.

Dr. Sanders said snake venom, particularly cobra venom, attacks the motor cells of the central nervous system—the same cells affected by polio.

University president Dr. Jay F. W. Pearson emphasized that the results of the four-year research were made public partly to "prevent exaggerated expectations from reports of research still in its intermediate stages."

New Installation To Hike Demand For Fluoridation

HARRISBURG, (INS) Aug. 18.—The State Health Department predicted Philadelphia will touch off community demand to make fluoridated drinking water available throughout the commonwealth.

The Quaker City is installing fluoridation equipment that will go into use before the end of the year.

The department said 900,000 Pennsylvanians are now using water treated with the special compound which will reduce tooth decay by two-thirds in children and be effective lifelong.

The number has jumped from 50,000 a year ago and will be more than three million when the Philadelphia treatment plant is completed.

The department indicated many municipalities are holding up action to see what happens in Philadelphia, although many other cities—including Pittsburgh—are already using fluoridated water.

The largest fluoridation systems now in operation in the state are located in Allegheny County.

The municipal water supply serves fluoridated water to 600,000 consumers in Pittsburgh and 10 suburban areas, and the Wilkesburg Water Authority supplies 200,000 users in Wilkesburg, 20 nearby communities and 13 wards in Pittsburgh.

Lone Rabbit Bags Teen-Age Driver

An eye witness reports on the Lakes to Sea Highway in Clearfield County, a teen-age driver attempted to run down a rabbit.

Evidently concentrating too long on the chase, the boy failed to negotiate a sharp curve, ran off the road and crashed his late model car into a bank. Luckily the driver was alone and was unhurt. Damage to the auto was about $500.

The rabbit? It went merrily on its way.

Nursery School Is Fine Experience

By FRANCIS VANNY
Home Economics Agent

When parents consider sending their child to nursery school, usually their first thought is what he will gain from learning to play with other children. They also hope the child will learn to take responsibility. However, each parent has a different reason for thinking that nursery school will benefit the child.

People these days seldom speak of the nursery school as replacing the home or as a substitution for it. Actually nursery school supplements the home. It adds to the child's experience. Nursery school environment is rich and everything in it is on a child's level.

The child has a flexible yet regulated schedule at nursery school. He learns to know what to expect. Each day there is opportunity for free play indoors and outdoors. During the indoor free play period, a child may choose whatever he wishes to play with from things in the play room. He may choose to build with blocks, to paint at the easel, to color with crayons, to finger paint, to put puzzles together, to work with modeling clay, a doll or one of the many books. Usually there is an adult who will sit with him as he looks at the book.

Generally a special time is set aside for music and rhythms, the period lasting 15 to 20 minutes.

In outdoor play big muscles get a workout. There are places to climb, boards on which to balance and walk, tricycles to ride, wagons to pull, and wheelbarrows to push.

A child in nursery school makes great strides in eye and muscle coordination. Development takes place in every area. Children lay down their patterns of social behavior in their play together under trained guidance.

Merchants Assured Full Data On State Sales Tax

HARRISBURG, Aug. 18 — (INS) — Merchants and the buying public were assured today that full information will be available before the new state sales tax goes into effect September 1.

Up to this point the picture has been rather hazy as the state revenue department hastily analyzed the law.

Beginning Tuesday, the department will release a series of lists showing which items will be taxed and which ones will not.

To merchants the department promised a full set of instructions for collecting the taxes, recording them and making returns to the Commonwealth four times a year.

The new sales tax division of the department opened state headquarters today in Harrisburg. Tentative plans call for about 220 office workers and 200 accountants in the field.

Field representatives will keep check on some 250,000 business establishments responsible for collecting the one per cent tax.

Registration forms and sketchy instructions already have gone out to 189,000 employers listed by the State Bureau of Employment Security. Others will be contacted this week through local newspapers.

1 cup hot water
1/4 cup cold water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 cup real mayonnaise
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 California Bartlett Pear, cut in cubes
1/2 cup crushed pineapple, with juice

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add cold water, lemon juice, mayonnaise, and salt. Blend well with rotary beater. Pour into refrigerator

Make Your Own Salmon Salad

SALAD is more than a salad in this beautiful array of ingredients. The hostess provides the fixings and each guest assembles his own salad by selecting favorites at the buffet table. Some will go for accent of cucumber or green pepper or hard cooked egg, but all will dip into the chilled and inviting canned salmon to highlight their personal creation.

Canned salmon makes a wonderful summer main dish salad. It's ready to use the instant the can is opened — so hostess-easy. The flavor of this fish is universally liked. It has been packed at the peak of perfection and cooked in a way that can't be matched at home. Once for ounce it is one of the most economical of canned fish. It combines well with vegetables. All in all a summer salad treasure.

Salmon Buffet Salad

1 1-pound can salmon, sliced
1 large cucumber, scored and sliced
1/4 bunch celery, cut in 2-inch pieces and fringed
2 small green peppers, cut in rings

1 bunch scallions
4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
Barbecue relish
Salad greens
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup chili sauce

Drain salmon; flake, keeping cubes and crushed pineapple and pour into mold. Chill until firm, 30 to 60 minutes. Unmold and garnish with salad greens. Serve with mayonnaise or whipped cream, if desired. Serves 6.

U.S. Civil Worker Welcomed Ouster

It may well be that Prentiss M. Terry has made history. So says the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in reporting Terry's story — the story of a federal civil servant who welcomed his own dismissal by remarking: "I'm for economy. If it hits me, that's all right!"

At present, Terry is district manager of the Louisville, Ky., field office of the Department of Commerce. He has spent 27 years in government service, and everyone merces. He has spent 27 years in Louisville, making many friends outside his public life. He has been president of the Rotary Club, vice president of the Louisville Board of Trade, director of the YMCA, and currently is president of the Kentucky Opera Association.

Not long ago, Terry learned the Department of Commerce planned to close its Louisville office for reasons of economy, eliminating his job. That was when Terry made history. He did not see himself as the indispensable man. He did not run to his friends. He did not cry that his dismissal was "illegal." Nor did he cast about in the federal labyrinth for another job. He even issued a statement pleading that no political or business pressure be brought to halt his dismissal.

When the public regained its composure, Terry's desk began to pile up with congratulatory mail. A business man wrote, "Usually, everybody wants government spending reduced — except where it hurts him." Another said, "There ought to be more guys like you."

THE 'TAFT WING'

through it leadership of the Southern Democrats in Congress, and goes on to say that the Eisenhower forces "now are seeking through patronage to keep control of party organizations in the South."

There is a good deal of plausibility in Mr. Stokes' analysis, but it is much too foggy to shed real light on the political crisis towards which both national parties are heading.

It is all very well for Mr. Stokes to say that what Taft and the "Taft wing" stood for was Midwest insularity. The facts, however, are far different.

What brought Taft, his philosophy, the philosophy of the segment of the Party which he represents, and the widespread sentiment of Southern Democrats, into highlight and harmony was a very specific issue — or rather two of them. Mr. Stokes is correct in the date of 15 years ago but he quite fails to mention the prime considerations of that period.

The North-South fusion of those Mr. Stokes describes as "conservatives" was formed during the blaze of resentment which flamed up when the late President Roosevelt produced his twin plans of, first, packing the Supreme Court and, second, the notorious Reorganization Bill there. These were not issues of insularity, nor had they anything to do with the political bugaboo which Mr. Stokes invokes in his article — "isolationism."

The affinity between, on the one hand, the Midwest and the other portions of the Republican strongholds where the Taft leadership has been in effect and, on the other hand, the Jeffersonian Democrats of the South, was based on the conviction that the New Deal under President Roosevelt and later President Truman was going much too far in the direction of a police state or military dictatorship, or out-and-out socialism under the tag of "welfare."

Patriotism in the form of a spirited determination to preserve this American Republic and the principles of the Constitution, was the motivation, and it does little credit to Mr. Stokes not to recognize this fact.

Mr. Stokes who is, so far as Republicans are concerned, "always belittling," makes it appear that the dominance of certain groups of Republicans in Congress is based wholly on what he terms as "the seniority rule which gives the lion's share of key posts." This remark is quite off the target. The truth is that the Republicans have been fortunate, ever since their comeback from the Maine-Vermont days, in finding and keeping in Congress some of the ablest and most conscientious men who ever held such posts.

Taft won his innumerable debates not by oratory, not by bombast, but by the simple process of knowing more about the subject than those who happened to be on the other side of the fence. His information about the doings of Congress, the issues, the individuals, the arguments, etc., was encyclopedic.

By committees and individuals the Republicans have had the services of many other powerful agencies whose strength rose out of mastery of the facts.

Senator McCarthy would have disappeared from the scene long ago had he not been able to fortify himself with facts at every turn. Who knows more about defense spending than Senator Styles Bridges, more about international giveaways than Congressman John Taber, more about tax issues than Congressman Dan Reed, more about labor legislation than Pennsylvania's Congressman Samuel K. McConnell, Jr., or more about tariffs than Pennsylvania's dean of Congress, Richard M. Simpson? The power of this group does not lie in seniority but in knowledge.

Going back to the North-South coalition, this fusion received two shots in the arm in 1947 — first on the tax issue and second in the matter of labor legislation. Never was a more sensational victory scored by an individual than was achieved by Taft in out-debating the entire Truman Administration on both of these issues; and never was a more decisive defeat given a powerfully entrenched administration than was spelled out in the final votes overriding Truman's vetoes.

These considerations are of great importance to the student of political events because they indicate that the future developments of the "Taft wing" and of the Southern conservatives are not a matter of footwork, patronage, "rabble-rousing," etc., but of a deliberate getting together on fundamental issues.

What footwork is involved comes from the efforts of the radicals, of whom Mr. Stokes has been a favorite spokesman on many occasions, to so maneuver things that the Northern radicals and the Western radicals (actually a distinct minority in Congress) should wind up dominating the middle-of-the-road conservatives from both parties in the North and South. That would be "the tail wagging the dog" with a vengeance!

What Mr. Stokes hates to concede, but must not be forgotten, is that the radical element so noisy in both parties is nevertheless a fringe. No conceivable coalition of the left wingers can provide an honest majority, either nation-wide or in Congress. The sole hope they have is to hoodwink President Eisenhower into cracking the patronage whip and creating the illusion of widespread solidarity on the part of the radicals.

If the conservative forces of this country, who have every reason for dismay over (1) the financial distress of the country, (2) the international stalemate, (3) the renewed trend toward giveaways both at home and abroad, and (4) the unsolved dilemma of war versus depression — if the great majority of Americans whose interest is in preserving the Republic and its resources for their children — do not have the vision and the courage to grapple with this stupendous issue, mere so-called "leadership" is futile.

The real question of the times in national politics does not concern itself particularly with individuals. The great stresses which will determine the future are the emotions and shifts of large segments of public thinking.
